Linguistic Archaeology Edo Nyland, 2001 Both of Edo Nyland's theses are in contradiction to current opinions of linguists who tend to suppose polygenesis of language families and language changes caused by natural evolution Unbelievable Edo Nyland gives many convincing proofs in this book There are hundreds of examples of words taken from different languages being decoded by the same method revealing their hidden meaning The decoding method is successfully applied to the translation of the forgotten language OGAM the remains of which are found on standing stones of Ireland Scotland and North America Other currently available translations of Linear B Text on Cretan clay tablets supposed to be written in ancient Greek and of the enigmatic book AURAICEPT of the Benedictine monks supposed to be written in Celtic language have been considerably improved by the same decoding method Edo Nyland's web site where he presents the contents of this book has been selected as a featured site in Lightspan's StudyWeb as one of the best educational resources on the Web The book can be read easily by interested laymen Scholars of linguistics stone age and medieval history religion and anthropology might use this book for a critical revision of their current paradigms      The Forbidden Benito Pérez Galdós, 2009-03-26 Benito Pérez Galdós considered Spain's most important novelist after Cervantes wrote 77 novels several works of theater and a number of other tomes during his lifetime 1843-1920 His works have been translated into all major languages of the world and many of his most highly regarded novels those of the contemporary period have been translated into English two three and even four times over Of the few contemporary novels of Galdós that until now have not come to light in English The Forbidden is certainly among the most noteworthy The story line concerns a wealthy philanderer Jos María Bueno de Guzmán who attempts to buy the favors of his three beautiful married cousins. He is successful with the first Eloísa, a grasping materialist who falls deeply in love with him. Then he rejects her in order to attempt to seduce the youngest, Camila. Meanwhile the third, the pseudo intellectual María Juana, jealous, seduces José María. But it is Camila, healthy, impetuous and wild, who resists his temptations and holds our attention. The novelist and critic Leopoldo Alas 'Galdós' contemporary calls her the most feminine, graceful, lively female character that any modern novelist has painted. As a naturalistic study in the manner of Balzac, in particular principal characters of Galdós's other novels, El doctor Centeno, La de Bringas, La familia de León Roch, become fleetingly visible in The Forbidden. In addition, the entire Bueno de Guzmán family gives evidence of the naturalistic emphasis on heredity; they all display certain physical or mental disorders. Eloísa has a morbid fear of feathers. María Juana often feels that she has a tiny piece of cloth caught in her teeth. José María suffers bouts of depression, an uncle is a kleptomaniac, one of the relatives writes letters to himself, etc. At the same time, this novel shows the foibles of Spanish society where status is determined by one's associates, by the wearing of finery and by living on borrowed money. In their history of Spanish literature, Chandler and Schwartz call Galdós the greatest novelist of the nineteenth century and the only one who deserves to be mentioned in the same breath with great novelists like Balzac, Dickens and Dostoevsky. The Forbidden, written at the height of the author's creative powers, is a major work and its publication for an English speaking audience is long overdue.

Cognitive Models in Language and Thought, René Dirven, Roslyn Frank, Martin Pütz, 2012-05-02. The volume offers a number of representative papers on cognitive models that are invoked when people deal with questions of social identity, political and economic manipulation and more general issues such as the genomic discourse. In line with the well known volume Cultural Models in Language and Thought by Holland and Quinn 1987, the volume shows that Cognitive Linguistics has further explored the idea that we think about social reality in terms of models, cognitive cultural models or folk theories. As in cultural models, the present volume demonstrates that the technical apparatus of Cognitive Linguistics can be used to analyze the various ways our conception of social reality is shaped by underlying cognitive and/or cultural models or patterns of thought and also looks into how this is done. The new inroad the volume wants to pursue is the deliberate and explicit orientation towards a cognitive sociolinguistics or more generally a cognitive semiotics.
