BLIZZARD OF ONE

WINNER OF THE PULITZER PRIZE

"Since Yeats linked the 'labor to be beautiful' with the work of poetry, no poet has taken the link more to heart, or made handsomer, more stylish poems out of mirror-gazing, than former Poet Laureate Mark Strand ... Whether in the charming monologues of 'Five Dogs,' the moving elegy 'In Memory of Joseph Brodsky' or the dream-memoir of his social circle, 'The Delirium Waltz,' Strand insists on the failure of poetry to preserve our reflections or to reanimate the ghosts of memory and loss. 'Time slips by,' he writes in 'The Next Time,' 'our sorrows do not turn into poems, / And what is invisible stays that way. Desire has fled, / Leaving only a trace of perfume in its wake, / And so many people we love have gone.' The frank, elegiac brio and easy swing of lines like these have always distinguished Strand's work, and they have never sounded more seductive ... [T]his wonderful, varied new collection also shows a wit reminiscent of John Ashbery, private, hard to pin down, addicted to deferrals and dying falls. If there is something scandalous in Strand's gorgeous, unabashed nostalgia or erotic melancholy, the scandal is how inescapable these modes remain, for us and for one of our most deeply enjoyable poets."

were exhausted and finite However the volume also looks forward to the poetry and readings that the new century will bring The Companion embraces the extraordinary development of poetry over the century in twenty English speaking countries a century which began with a bipolar transatlantic connection in modernism and ended with the decentred heterogeneity of post colonialism Representation of the canonical and the marginal is therefore balanced including the full integration of women poets and feminist approaches and the in depth treatment of post colonial poets from various national traditions Discussion of context intertextualities and formal approaches illustrates the increasing self consciousness and self reflexivity of the period whilst a Readings section offers new readings of key selected texts The volume as a whole offers critical and contextual coverage of the full range of English language poetry in the last century Northern Irish Poetry and the Russian Turn S. Schwerter, 2013-02-07 Seamus Heaney Tom Paulin and Medbh McGuckian are the three most influential poets from Northern Ireland who have composed poems with a link to the Tsarist Empire and the Soviet Union Through their references to Russia the three poets achieve a geographical and mental detachment allowing them to turn a fresh eye on the Northern Irish situation
