Women Adapting Bethany Wood, 2019-05-29 When most of us hear the title Gentlemen Prefer Blondes we think of Marilyn Monroe and Jane Russell's iconic film performance. Few however are aware that the movie was based on Anita Loos's 1925 comic novel by the same name. What does it mean? Women Adapting asks to translate a Jazz Age blockbuster from book to film or stage. What adjustments are necessary and what if anything is lost? Bethany Wood examines three well-known stories that debuted as women's magazine serials: Gentlemen Prefer Blondes, Edith Wharton's The Age of Innocence and Edna Ferber's Show Boat, and traces how each of these beloved narratives traveled across publishing, theatre and film through adaptation. She documents the formation of adaptation systems and how they involved women's voices and labor in modern entertainment in ways that have been previously underappreciated. What emerges is a picture of a unique window of time in the early decades of the twentieth century when women in entertainment held influential positions in production and management. These days when filmic adaptations seem endless and perhaps even unoriginal, Women Adapting challenges us to rethink the popular platitude: "The book is always better than the movie."

The Unseen Truth Sarah Lewis, 2024-09-17 Sarah Lewis unearths the critical moment when Americans were confronted with the fictions shoring up the nation's racial regime and learned to disregard them. When popular nineteenth-century images of the Caucasus proved the lie of white supremacy, a new visual regime arose to suppress the evidence of the incoherence of racial order.

Races and Peoples: Lectures on the Science of Ethnography Daniel G. Brinton, 2019-11-22 In Races and Peoples: Lectures on the Science of Ethnography, Daniel G. Brinton delivers a comprehensive examination of human diversity, linking ethnographic studies with anthropological insights. Employing a clear and engaging literary style, Brinton navigates through various racial classifications, cultural practices and social constructs, ultimately challenging the prevailing racial hierarchies of his time. Grounded in the burgeoning field of scientific ethnography during the late 19th century, the work seeks not only to catalog diverse human experiences but also to advocate for a more nuanced understanding of cultural complexity. Daniel G. Brinton, a prominent American physician and anthropologist, was well-versed in the scientific trends and socio-political discourses of his era. His background in medicine and keen interest in Native American cultures propelled him to explore the intricate tapestry of human societies. Brinton's commitment to empirical observation and a more egalitarian perspective on race reflects his progressive stance against contemporary ethnocentric ideologies, making his work an essential contribution to the nascent discipline of anthropology. This book is highly recommended for those interested in the foundations of ethnographic studies and it offers invaluable insights into the intersection of race, culture and science. Brinton's thoughtful perspective challenges readers to reconsider their understandings of human diversity, making it a crucial read for scholars, students and culturally curious individuals alike.
