will doubtless be aware that the title of this lecture is taken from Goethe's Faust. You all know that in this poem we are shown how Faust, the representative of the highest human effort, enters into a pact with the evil powers who on their side are represented in the poem by Mephistopheles, the emissary of hell. You will know too that Faust is to strike a bargain with Mephistopheles, the deed of which must be signed with his own blood. Faust in the first instance looks upon it as a jest. Mephistopheles, however, at this juncture utters the sentence which Goethe without a doubt intended should be taken seriously: Blood is a very special fluid. Now with reference to this line in Goethe's Faust, we come to a curious trait in the so-called Goethe commentators. You are of course aware how vast is the literature dealing with Goethe's version of the Faust Legend. It is a literature of such stupendous dimensions that whole libraries might be stocked with it, and naturally I cannot make it my business to expatiate on the various comments made by these interpreters of Goethe concerning this particular passage.

The Forces Which Carry on the Circulation of the Blood Andrew Buchanan, 2023-07-19. Reprint of the original first published in 1874. National Heart, Blood Vessel, Lung, and Blood Program; Annual Report of the Director of the National Heart and Lung Institute

National Heart and Lung Institute, 1975. A beautiful vampire sucks my blood, but I'm so malnourished that she fainted from disgust... and in the end, we fall in love; Light Novel Yankuik Itzaé, 2025-06-17. What would you do if death bit you and then fainted from disgust? The life of a man in ruins without direction or hope changes in the most absurd way when a vampire as elegant as she is lethal tries to feed on his blood and almost dies in the attempt. He, a mixture of misery, irony, and resignation. She, a creature of the night with standards too high for this world. Together by mistake or fate, they will begin a dysfunctional relationship marked by sarcasm, noodle soup, veiled threats, and an unusual tenderness among ruins. With dialogue as sharp as fangs and humor so dark it would make Edgar Allan Poe weep, this novel sweeps us through a romantic tale as decadent as it is endearing, where horror and laughter embrace under the dim light of a dying lantern. A story for those who once wanted to give up but didn't have the money to pay their way to hell. Welcome to the most adorable disaster of darkness. She's thirsty. He's anemic. And love, of course, is the most dangerous thing of all. A Anime Style Light Novel About
