This time around Mitch and Deidre are not only hunters but also the prey. Blood Ties Jennifer Lash, 1999-07-16 Set mainly in Ireland Jennifer Lash's dark exhilarating novel is about the redemptive power of love. It tells of Violet Farr and her loveless marriage, her wild unfathomable son and his illegitimate son, all of them bound together in a repeating pattern of exile and homecoming, rejection and finally acknowledgement and love. As Elizabeth Buchan wrote in the London Times Jennifer Lash is a Lawrentian in so far as she mines her material for the blood and thunder roaring between spouses and between parents and children.

Decentering the Center Uma Narayan, Sandra G. Harding, Sandra Harding, 2000 The essays in this volume bring to their focuses on philosophical issues the new angles of vision created by the multicultural, global and postcolonial feminisms that have been developing around us. These multicultural, global and postcolonial feminist concerns transform mainstream notions of experience, human rights, the origins of philosophic issues, philosophic uses of metaphors of the family, white antiracism, human progress, scientific progress, modernity, the unity of scientific method, the desirability of universal knowledge claims and other ideas central to philosophy. Islam Muhammad Saed and the women of the mountain settlements were found to be in Mead's word maternal. The Mountain Arapesh exhibited qualities that many might consider feminine; they were in general passive, affectionate, and peace-loving. Though Mead partially explains the male's femininity as being due to the type of nourishment available to the Arapesh, she maintains social conditioning to be a factor in the type of lifestyle led by both sexes. Mead's study encapsulates all aspects of the Arapesh culture. She discusses betrothal and marriage customs, sexuality, gender roles, diet, religion, arts, agriculture, and rites of passage. In possibly a portent for the breakdown of traditional roles and beliefs in the latter part of the twentieth century, Mead discusses the purpose of rites of passage in maintaining societal values and social control. Mead also discovered that both male and female parents took an active role in raising their children. Furthermore, it was found that there were few conflicts over property; the Arapesh, having no concept of land ownership, maintained a peaceful existence with each other. In his new introduction to The Mountain Arapesh, Paul B. Roscoe assesses the importance of Mead's work in light of modern anthropological and ethnographic research, as well as how it fits into her own canon of writings. Roscoe discusses findings he culled from a trip to Papua New Guinea in 1991 to clarify some ambiguities in Mead's work. His travels also served to help reconstruct what had happened to the Arapesh since Mead's historic visit in the early 1930s.

The Gift of Kinship Edward LiPuma, 1988 Edward LiPuma presents an ethnography of Maring social organization in order to develop a generative theory of Highland societies.

Applying Ibn Khaldūn Syed Farid Alatas, 2014-06-05 The writings of Ibn Khaldūn, particularly the Muqaddimah (Prolegomenon), have rightly been regarded as being sociological in nature. For this reason, Ibn Khaldūn has been widely regarded as the founder of sociology or at least a precursor of modern sociology. While he was given this recognition, however, few works went beyond proclaiming him as a founder or precursor to the systematic application of his theoretical perspective to specific historical and contemporary aspects of Muslim societies in North Africa and the Middle East. The continuing presence of Eurocentrism in the social sciences has not helped in this regard; it often stands in the way of the consideration of non-Western sources of theories and concepts. This book provides an overview of Ibn Khaldūn and his sociology, discusses reasons for his marginality and suggests ways to bring Ibn Khald n into the mainstream through the systematic application of his theory It moves beyond works that simply state that Ibn Khald n was a founder of sociology or provide descriptive accounts of his works Instead it systematically applies Khald n s theoretical perspective to specific historical aspects of Muslim societies in North Africa and the Middle East successfully integrating concepts and frameworks from Khald nian sociology into modern social science theories Applying Ibn Khald n will be of interest to students and scholars of sociology and social theory
