century one of Louis XIV's court physicians transfers the blood of a calf into a madman to cure him At the turn of the twentieth century a young researcher in Vienna identifies the basic blood groups taking the first step toward successful transfusion Then a New York doctor finds a way to stop blood from clotting thereby making all transfusion possible In the 1930s a Russian physician in grisly improvisation successfully uses cadaver blood to help living patients and realizes that blood can be stored The first blood bank is soon operating in Chicago During World War II researchers driven by battlefield needs break down blood into usable components that are more easily stored and transported This fractionation process accomplished by a Harvard team produces a host of pharmaceuticals setting the stage for the global marketplace to come Plasma precisely because it can be made into long lasting drugs is shipped and traded for profit today it is a 5 billion business The author recounts the tragic spread of AIDS through the distribution of contaminated blood products and describes why and how related scandals have erupted around the world Finally he looks at the latest attempts to make artificial blood Douglas Starr has written a groundbreaking book that tackles a subject of universal and urgent importance and explores the perils and promises that lie ahead
