The Routledge Handbook of Archaeology and Globalization Tamar Hodos, 2016-11-18 This unique collection applies globalization concepts to the discipline of archaeology using a wide range of global case studies from a group of international specialists The volume spans from as early as 10 000 cal BP to the modern era analysing the relationship between material culture complex connectivities between communities and groups and cultural change Each contributor considers globalization ideas explicitly to explore the socio cultural connectivities of the past In considering social practices shared between different historic groups and also the expression of their respective identities the papers in this volume illustrate the potential of globalization thinking to bridge the local and global in material culture analysis The Routledge Handbook of Archaeology and Globalization is the first such volume to take a world archaeology approach on a multi period basis in order to bring together the scope of evidence for the significance of material culture in the processes of globalization This work thus also provides a means to understand how material culture can be used to assess the impact of global engagement in our contemporary world As such it will appeal to archaeologists and historians as well as social science researchers interested in the origins of globalization

Science and Civilisation in China Joseph Needham,Rose Kerr,Nigel Wood,2004 The Cambridge History of China Denis Crispin Twitchett,John King Fairbank,1978 International scholars and sinologists discuss culture economic growth social change political processes and foreign influences in China since the earliest pre dynastic period

Romantic Writing and the Empire of Signs Karen Fang,2010-02-02 Nineteenth century periodicals frequently compared themselves to the imperial powers then dissecting the globe and this interest in imperialism can be seen in the exotic motifs that surfaced in works by such late Romantic authors as John Keats Charles Lamb James Hogg Letitia Landon and Lord Byron Karen Fang explores the collaboration of these authors with periodical magazines to show how an interdependent relationship between these visual themes and rhetorical style enabled these authors to model their writing on the imperial project Fang argues that in the decades after Waterloo late Romantic authors used imperial culture to capitalize on the contemporary explosion of periodical magazines This proliferation of post Napoleonic writing often referencing exotic locales both revises longstanding notions about literary orientalism and reveals a remarkable synthesis of Romantic idealism with contemporary cultural materialism that heretofore has not been explored Indeed in interlocking case studies that span the reach of British conquest ranging from Greece China and Egypt to Italy and Tahiti Fang challenges a major convention of periodical publication While periodicals are usually thought to be defined by time this account of the geographic attention exerted by late Romantic authors shows them to be equally concerned with space With its exploration of magazines and imperialism as a context for Romantic writing culture and aesthetics this book will appeal not only to scholars of book history and reading cultures but also to those of nineteenth century British writing and history

Britain's Chinese Eye Elizabeth Chang,2010-04-20 This book traces the intimate connections between Britain and China throughout the nineteenth century and argues for China s central impact on the British visual imagination Chang brings together an unusual group of primary sources to investigate how nineteenth century Britons looked at and represented Chinese people places and things and how in the process ethnographic geographic and aesthetic representations of China shaped British writers and artists vision of their own lives and experiences For many Britons China was much more than a geographical location it was also a way of seeing and being seen that could be either embraced as creative inspiration or rejected as contagious influence In both cases the idea of China s visual difference stood in negative contrast to Britain s evolving sense of the visual and literary real To better grasp what Romantic and Victorian writers artists and architects were doing at home we must also understand the foreign objects found in their midst and what they were looking at abroad The Routledge Companion to Global Renaissance Art Stephen J.

Campbell,Stephanie Porras,2024-01-22 This companion examines the global Renaissance through object based case studies of artistic production from Africa Asia the Americas and Europe in the early modern period The international group of contributors take an art historical approach characterized by close analysis of form and meaning as well as function and a focus on questions of crosscultural dialogue and adaptation Seeking to de emphasize the traditional focus on Europe this book is a critical guide to the literature and the state of the field Chapters outline new questions and agendas while pushing beyond familiar material Main themes include workshops the migrations of artists objects technologies diplomatic gifts imperial ideologies ethnicity and indigeneity sacred spaces and image cults as well as engaging with the open questions of the Renaissance and the global This will be a useful and important resource for researchers and students alike and will be of interest to scholars working in art history visual culture material culture and Renaissance studies The Open Access version of this book available at www.taylorfrancis.com has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non
