Rogers,1997-09-15 Combining practical student centered activities with an annotated bibliography of more than 160 children s books this guide models ways for classroom teachers to teach geography through children s literature Chapters based on the five themes of the Geographic Standards present a variety of activities that teach students important geographic concepts The extensive bibliography provides summaries of books suggested teaching activities and cross references to other books a list of teacher resources is also included Attractive line drawings accompany the conversational text Anyone looking for an effective way to teach geography at the elementary level will want this book and middle and high school educators will find useful extensions for older students The work offers a great way to integrate geography into the curriculum Children's Media Market Place Carol A. Emmens,1982 Nonfiction Matters Stephanie Harvey,2023-10-10 When we open the gates to nonfiction inquiry we open our thinking and expect the unexpected making reading discoveries research discoveries and writing discoveries on our way Nonfiction Matters offers teachers the tools to help students explore nonfiction and dig deep to reach more complete understanding of the real world and report these insights in a compelling manner Stephanie Harvey shows how students can read expository text engage in research and write authentic nonfiction that is captivating visual and full of voice The inquiry projects she describes require in depth learning topic selection question development research exploration reading for content organization synthesis writing to convey meaning and presenting findings all skills that develop independent thinkers who know how to make decisions solve problems and apply their knowledge insightfully Full of practical suggestions to help you bring nonfiction into your curriculum Nonfiction Matters presents strategies for understanding expository text and conducting meaningful research offers ideas for organizing and writing accurate effective nonfiction from idea to finished presentation advances the importance of teacher modeling and guided practice in instructional delivery provides a list of inquiry tools and resources both print and electronic suggests ways to facilitate project based learning and assess the projects as they develop includes bibliographies of nonfiction children s books by subject and genre and lists of recommended magazines Why is nonfiction almost a guaranteed success The key to teaching with nonfiction is passion for children are passionate inquirers and nonfiction fuels their curiosity and their demand for knowledge and understanding of the world Two Books Are Better Than One! Shari Frost,2016-06-03 Children are expected to read and comprehend texts in a variety of genres with increasing complexity Then they must integrate the ideas and concepts from those texts into their own writing The book helps teachers meet those demands Doing History Linda S. Levstik,Keith C. Barton,2015-01-30 Now in its fifth edition Doing History offers a unique perspective on teaching and learning history in the elementary and middle grades Through case studies of teachers and students in diverse classrooms and from diverse backgrounds it shows children engaging in authentic historical investigations often in the context of an integrated social studies curriculum The premise is that children can engage in valid forms of historical inquiry collecting and analyzing data examining the perspectives of people in the past considering multiple interpretations and creating evidence based historical accounts Grounded in contemporary sociocultural theory and research the text features vignettes in each chapter showing communities of teachers and students doing history in environments rich in literature art writing discussion and debate The authors explain how the teaching demonstrated in the vignettes reflects basic principles of contemporary learning theory Doing History emphasizes diversity of perspectives in two ways readers encounter students from a variety of backgrounds and students themselves look at history from multiple perspectives It provides clear guidance in using multiple forms of assessment to evaluate the specifically historical aspects of children s learning

Social Reconstruction Karen L. Riley, 2006-05-01 Social Reconstruction as a philosophy stream of thought or official program is often synonymous with Depression era Progressivism But Social Reconstruction unlike progressivism enjoyed political stardom The spirit of progressivism at least in terms of education found a home in those enthusiasts who supported a child centered perspective of education Others such as the essentialists viewed their progressive role as one that advanced the view of essential or basic education as the most sound approach to curriculum and teaching Still others more radical in their outlook believed that progress should be framed with questions about social justice and equity Proponents of social reconstruction included Harold Rugg and George Counts although the movement was rich with supporters To date social reconstruction is only a by word in most texts that deal with the Progressive Era or progressive education perhaps because Rugg and Counts the two most visible proponents sought and received the political limelight no matter how glaring In any event the depths of social reconstruction have yet to be plumbed Hence the first book in this series will offer a comprehensive treatment of Social Reconstruction which include chapters that examine its proponents political nature and social justice programs born of and within the tumultuous context of progressive politics

Points of Viewing Children's Thinking Ricki Goldman-Segall, Ricki Goldman, 2014-04-08 This book is about learning and ethnography in the context of technologies Simultaneously it portrays young people s thinking attitudes in computer based learning environments and it describes how the practice of ethnography is changing in a digital world The author likens this form of interaction to the double helix where learning and ethnography are intertwined to tell an emergent story about partnerships with technology Two school computer cultures were videotaped for this study Separated not only by geography one school is on the east coast of New England and the other on the west coast of British Columbia on Vancouver Island they are also separated in other ways ethnic make up and inner city vs rural settings to name only two Yet these two schools are joined by a strong thread a change in their respective cultures with the advent of intensive computer use on the part of the students Both school communities have watched their young people gain literacy and competence and their tools have changed from pen to computer video camera multimedia and the Internet Perhaps most striking is that the way they think of themselves as learners has also changed they see themselves as an active participant in the pilot's seat or director's chair as they chart new connections between diverse and often unpredictable worlds of knowledge

Athletes of Purpose Arnold Cheyney, 1999 Meet 50 diverse athletes whose personal stories will inspire students and challenge them to consider their own potential for success One page biographical profiles are followed by reading and social studies activities that promote critical thinking and writing Useful in many different school and home settings
