Art Music In The Humanities:

The Ethnomusicology of Western Art Music Laudan Nooshin, 2013-10-23 Since the late 1980s the boundaries between the musicologies have become increasingly blurred Most notably a growing number of musicologists have become interested in the ideas and methodologies of ethnomusicology and in particular in applying one of the central methodological tools of ethnomusicology ethnography to the study of Western art music a tradition which had previously been studied primarily through scores recordings and other historical sources Alongside this since the 1970s a small number of ethnomusicologists have also written about Western art music thus complicating the idea of ethnomusicology as the study of other music Indeed there has been a growth in this area of scholarship in recent years Approaching western art music through the perspectives of ethnomusicology can offer new and enriching insights to the study of this musical tradition as shown in the writings presented in this book The current volume is the first collection of essays on this topic and includes work by authors from a range of musicological and ethnomusicological backgrounds exploring a variety of issues including music in orchestral outreach programmes new audiences for classical music concerts music and conflict transformation ethnographic study of the rehearsal process and the politics of a high profile music festival This book was originally published as a special issue of Ethnomusicology Forum
