

LOSS POEMS

A Conceit

Give me your hand
Make room for me

A Broken Appointment

You did not come,
And marching Time drew on, and wore me numb.

A Light Exists In Spring

A light exists in spring
Not present on the year

An Irish Airman Forsees His Death

I know that I shall meet my fate
Somewhere among the clouds above;

Absolution

The anguish of the earth absolves our eyes
Till beauty shines in all that we can see.

Just Get Over It

'Just get over it, ' they say
I wish I could find a way

A Loss Of Something Ever Felt I

A loss of something ever felt I—
The first that I could recollect

Cheerfulness Taught By Reason

I think we are too ready with complaint
In this fair world of God's. Had we no hope

Aspects of Lyric in the Poetry of Emily Brontë Maureen Peeck-O'Toole, 2022-07-04 The Therapist in Mourning Kerry L Malawista, Anne J Adelman, 2013-05-28 The unexpected loss of a client can be a lonely and isolating experience for therapists While family and friends can ritually mourn the deceased the nature of the therapeutic relationship prohibits therapists from engaging in such activities Practitioners can only share memories of a client in circumscribed ways while respecting the patient's confidentiality Therefore they may find it difficult to discuss the things that made the therapeutic relationship meaningful Similarly when a therapist loses someone in their private lives they are expected to isolate themselves from grief since allowing one's personal life to enter the working relationship can interfere with a client's self discovery and healing For therapists caught between their grief and the empathy they provide for their clients this collection explores the complexity of bereavement within the practice setting. It also examines the professional and personal ramifications of death and loss for the practicing clinician. Featuring original essays from longstanding practitioners, the collection demonstrates the universal experience of bereavement while outlining a theoretical framework for the position of the bereft therapist. Essays cover the unexpected death of clients and patient suicide, personal loss in a therapist's life, the grief of clients who lose a therapist, disastrous loss within a community, and the grief resulting from professional losses and disruptions. The first of its kind, this volume gives voice to long suppressed thoughts and emotions, enabling psychologists, psychiatrists, counselors, and other mental health specialists to achieve the connection and healing they bring to their own work.

The Death Arts in Renaissance England William E. Engel, Rory Loughnane, Grant Williams, 2022-09-08. The first ever critical anthology of the death arts in Renaissance England, this book draws together over 60 extracts and 20 illustrations to establish and analyse how people grappled with mortality in the 16th and 17th centuries. As well as providing a comprehensive resource of annotated and modernized excerpts, this engaging study includes commentary on authors and overall texts, discussions of how each excerpt is constitutive and expressive of the death arts, and suggestions for further reading. The extended Introduction takes into account death's intersections with print, gender, sex, and race, surveying the period's far-reaching preoccupation with and anticipatory reflection upon the cessation of life. For researchers, instructors, and students interested in medieval and early modern history and literature, the Reformation, memory studies, book history, and print culture, this indispensable resource provides at once an entry point into the field of early modern death studies and a springboard for further research.

The Pursuit of Myth in the Poetry of Frank O'Hara, Ted Berrigan and John Forbes Duncan Hose, 2022-04-04. The Pursuit of Myth in the Poetry of Frank O'Hara, Ted Berrigan and John Forbes traces a tradition of revolutionary self-mythologising in the lives and works of Frank O'Hara, Ted Berrigan, and John Forbes as a significant trefoil in twentieth-century English language poetry. All three had untimely deaths, excited a collective homage, and developed cult followings that reverberate today. This book tracks the transmission of the poem as charm, the poet as charmer, and the reinstitution of troubadour erotics as a kind of social poetics. Starting with Orpheus, the book refreshes the myth of the poet as mythmaker, examining how myths of self and nation are regenerated for the twenty-first century and how persons as myths are made in community through coteries of artists and beyond. Duncan Bruce Hose's critical vocabulary, with its nucleus of mythos, searches the edges of phenomenal enquiry, closing in on the work of glamour, aura, charm, possession, phantasm, the daemonic, and the logic of haunting in the continuing being of these three poets as charismatic animals.
