Archaeology and The Politics of Vision in a Post-Modern Context Vítor Oliveira Jorge, Julian Tomas, 2009-01-14 Archaeology is intimately connected to the modern regime of vision A concern with optics was fundamental to the Scientific Revolution and informed the moral theories of the Enlightenment And from its inception archaeology was concerned with practices of depiction and classification that were profoundly scopophilic in character Drawing on both the visual arts and the depictive practices of the sciences employing conventionalised forms of illustration photography and spatial technologies archaeology presents a paradigm of visualised knowledge However a number of thinkers from Jean Paul Sartre onwards have cautioned that vision presents at once a partial and a politicised way of apprehending the world In this volume authors from archaeology and other disciplines address the problems that face the study of the past in an era in which realist modes of representation and the philosophies in which they are grounded in are increasingly open to question Library of Congress Information Bulletin ,1989 Encyclopedia of Nineteenth-Century Photography John Hannavy,2013-12-16 The Encyclopedia of Nineteenth Century Photography is the first comprehensive encyclopedia of world photography up to the beginning of the twentieth century It sets out to be the standard definitive reference work on the subject for years to come Its coverage is global an important first in that authorities from all over the world have contributed their expertise and scholarship towards making this a truly comprehensive publication The Encyclopedia presents new and ground breaking research alongside accounts of the major established figures in the nineteenth century arena Coverage includes all the key people processes equipment movements styles debates and groupings which helped photography develop from being a solution in search of a problem when first invented to the essential communication tool creative medium and recorder of everyday life which it had become by the dawn of the twentieth century The sheer breadth of coverage in the 1200 essays makes the Encyclopedia of Nineteenth Century Photography an essential reference source for academics students researchers and libraries worldwide the region and the West The exchange of ideas between scholars in the East and West was facilitated by both personal and institutional relations both official and informal encounters For the longest time however intellectual exchange was thwarted by political tensions that led to large parts of Central and Eastern Europe being isolated from the West A few literary theories nevertheless made it into Western scholarly discourses via exiled scholars Some of these scholars such as Mikhail Bakhtin become widely known in the West and their thought was transposed onto new Western cultural contexts others such as Olga Freidenberg were barely noticed outside of Russian and Poland This volume draws attention to the schools circles and concepts that shaped the development of theory in Central and Eastern Europe as well as the history of translations transformations and migrations that conditioned its relationship with the West Neuropsychology of Art
