Old Books, New Technologies David McKitterick, 2013-04-18 As we rely increasingly on digital resources and libraries discard large parts of their older collections what is our responsibility to preserve old books for the future David McKitterick's lively and wide ranging study explores how old books have been represented and interpreted from the eighteenth century to the present day Conservation of these texts has taken many forms from early methods of counterfeiting imitation and rebinding to modern practices of microfilming digitisation and photography Using a comprehensive range of examples McKitterick reveals these practices and their effects to address wider questions surrounding the value of printed books both in terms of their content and their status as historical objects Creating a link between historical approaches and the emerging technologies of the future this book furthers our understanding of old books and their significance in a world of emerging digital technology

The Place of the Viewer Kerr Houston, 2019-05-07 In recent decades art historians and critics have occasionally emphasized a dynamic embodied mode of looking accenting the role of the viewer and the complex interplay between beholders and works of art In The Place of the Viewer Kerr Houston shows that an attention to the position and physical experiences of beholders has in fact long informed art historical analyses and that close study of the theme can lead to a fuller understanding of the discipline the act of viewership and individual works of art Simultaneously attentive to historical ideas and contemporary scholarship this book identifies a vein of thought that has been generally overlooked and proposes new ways of seeing familiar works and traditions

Eloquent Bodies

Jacqueline E. Jung, 2020-07-14 A radical reassessment of the role of movement emotion and the viewing experience in Gothic sculpture Gothic cathedrals in northern Europe dazzle visitors with arrays of sculpted saints angels and noble patrons adorning their portals and interiors In this highly original and erudite volume Jacqueline E Jung explores how medieval sculptors used a form of bodily poetics involving facial expression gesture stance and torsion to create meanings beyond conventional iconography and to subtly manipulate spatial dynamics forging connections between the sculptures and beholders Filled with more than 500 images that capture the suppleness and dynamism of cathedral sculpture often through multiple angles Eloquent Bodies demonstrates how viewers confronted and in turn were addressed by sculptures at major cathedrals in France and Germany from Chartres and Reims to Strasbourg Bamberg Magdeburg and Naumburg Shedding new light on the charismatic and kinetic qualities of Gothic sculpture this book also illuminates the ways artistic ingenuity and technical skill converged to enliven sacred spaces

Remove Not/Ancient Landmark:Pu Reynolds, 2013-11-26 This book explores the ways that public monuments symbolize and convey moral values It analyzes the roles that monuments have always played and the influence they continue to exert on societies around the world The book also explores the origins and nature of humanity in light of the monuments

Documenting the World Gregg Mitman, Kelley Wilder, 2016-12-20 Imagine the twentieth century without photography and film Its history would be absent of images that define historical moments and generations the death camps of Auschwitz the assassination of John F Kennedy the Apollo lunar landing It would be a history in other words of just artists renderings and the spoken and written word To inhabitants of the twenty first century deeply immersed in visual culture such a history seems insubstantial imprecise and even perhaps unscientific Documenting the World is about the material and social life of photographs and film made in the scientific quest to document the world Drawing on scholars from the fields of art history visual anthropology and science and technology studies the chapters in this book explore how this documentation from the initial recording of images to their acquisition and storage to their circulation has altered our lives our ways of knowing our social and economic relationships and even our surroundings Far beyond mere illustration photography and film have become an integral transformative part of the world they seek to show us

Nineteenth-Century Photographs and Architecture Micheline Nilsen, 2017-07-05 Eschewing the limiting idea that nineteenth century architecture photography merely reflects functionality the objective of this collection is to reflect the aesthetic intellectual and cultural concerns of the time The essays hold appeal for social and cultural historians as well as those with an interest in the fields of art history urban geography history of travel and tourism Nineteenth century photographers captured what could be seen and what they wanted to be seen Their images informed of exploration progress heritage and destruction Architecture was a staple subject for the first generation of photographers as it patiently tolerated the long exposures of the early processes During its formative decades photography responded to evolutionary cultural forces of market and artistic production Photographs of architecture reflected a specific political or social context modulated through individual points of view For this reason the examination of each photographic image as a primary visual document and an aesthetic object rather than a technical milestone on a chronological trajectory affords a richer multi faceted approach to the extensive and complex corpus of photographs taken by photographers all over the world This project acknowledges the importance of technique in the early decades of photography but focuses on the thematic content of the material It places the photography of architecture in an international context under the contemporary critical lens sharpened by theoretical and cultural examinations of the topic
