Ensino de Língua Inglesa , Flann O'Brien and the European Avant-Garde, 1934-45 Tobias William Harris, 2025-02-20 Crossing the boundaries of a single author study this book uncovers Flann O'Brien's attempt to forge a commercially successful Irish literary project from international avant-garde influences Situating O'Brien's early work within a global context the book uses new evidence of his collaborations to reimagine him as a networked writer O'Brien drew upon experimental techniques to generate new categories of writing rethink Irish culture and reach a wide audience This study illuminates a network of cultural production around O'Brien linking his work to English comic magazines Dadaist photomontage Expressionism Central European theatre and renowned writers like Jorge Luis Borges and Franz Kafka By re-examining Flann O'Brien within the context of the momentous global political and cultural crises that spurred avant-garde experimentation the book also rewrites the cultural history of Ireland in the 1930s and 1940s

Art and Action in the Metropolis John Henry Zammito, 1978 Against Art and Culture Liam Dee, 2017-12-12 Offering a negative definition of art in relation to the concept of culture this book establishes the concept of art culture to describe the unity of these two fields around named labour idealised creative subjectivity and surplus signification Contending a conceptual and social reality of a combined art culture this book demonstrates that the failure to appreciate the dynamic totality of art and culture by its purported negators is due to almost all existing critiques of art and culture being defences of a true art or culture against inauthentic manifestations and art thus ultimately restricting creativity to the service of the bourgeois commodity regime While the evidence that art culture enables commodification has long been available the deduction that art culture itself is fundamentally of the world of commodification has failed to gain traction By applying a nuanced analysis of both commodification and the larger systems of ideological power the book considers how the surplus of art culture is used to legitimate the bourgeois status quo rather than unravel it It also examines possibilities for a post-art culture world based on both existing practices that challenge art culture identity as well as speculations on the integration of play and aesthetics into general social life An out and out negation of art and culture this book offers a unique contribution to the cultural critique landscape

The Bangladesh Reader Meghna Guhathakurta, Willem van Schendel, 2013-04-30 Bangladesh is the world's eighth most populous country. It has more inhabitants than either Russia or Japan and its national language Bengali ranks sixth in the world in terms of native speakers. Founded in 1971, Bangladesh is a relatively young nation, but the Bengal Delta region has been a major part of international life for more than 2,000 years, whether as an important location for trade or through its influence on Buddhist, Hindu, and Muslim life. Yet the country rarely figures in global affairs or media except in stories about floods, poverty, or political turmoil. The Bangladesh Reader does what those portrayals do not: It illuminates the rich historical, cultural, and political permutations that have created contemporary Bangladesh and it conveys a sense of the aspirations and daily lives of Bangladeshis. Intended for travelers, students, and scholars, the Reader encompasses first-person accounts, short stories, historical documents, speeches, treaties, essays, poems, songs, photographs, cartoons, paintings, posters, advertisements, maps, and a recipe. Classic selections familiar to many Bangladeshis and essential reading for those who want to know the country are juxtaposed with less-known pieces. The selections are translated from a dozen languages; many have not been available in English until now. Featuring eighty-three images, including seventeen in color, The Bangladesh Reader is an unprecedented, comprehensive introduction to the South Asian country's turbulent past and dynamic present.

You'll learn how various definitions of architecture establish different relationships with all buildings and even non-buildings. How buildings express and accommodate ideas of the sacred, the family, and the community. What an architect is and what priorities they bring to design and construction. How an architect's expertise relates to that of the engineer and why these are distinct disciplines. About values like beauty, originality, structural expression, and cultural memory and their purpose in architectural design. About the interests and ethical values that architects and architecture serve and promote. Topics include sacred spaces, the house, the city, architects and engineers, aesthetics, and design, originality and method, technology and form, memory and identity, and power and politics.      Artbibliographies Modern, 1998
