

Dance Positions

Terminology:

Closed Position

Man and lady stand in front of each other in body contact, slightly offset to the left. The feet should be positioned slightly offset so that the right foot of either partner can step between the other partner's feet. Man's left hand to lady's right hand. Palm to palm in an upper-hand clasp, with fingers and thumbs closed around partner's hand. Man's right hand on lady's back. Hand connects to her back on her shoulder blade. Lady's left hand and forearm on man's upper arm.

Open Facing Position

Open Facing is any position where partners stand facing each other, apart but within arms reach. Lead and follow is achieved through the use of various hand connections, such as the two-hand hold as shown in the picture. Other possibilities include a one-hand hold such as man's left to lady's right or man's right to lady's left, a "cross-hand" or "handshake hold" such as man's right to lady's right or man's left to lady's left.

Fan Position

Promenade:
