Women Archaeologists under Communism, 1917-1989 Florin Curta, Iurie Stamati, 2021-11-27 This book explores the uncharted territory of the history of archaeology under Communism through the biographies of five women archaeologists from the Soviet Union Bulgaria Romania Hungary and Poland They were working in medieval archaeology with a specific focus on the early Slavs The choice of specialists in medieval archaeology has much to do with the fact that in the five East European countries considered in this book medieval archaeology began to develop into a serious discipline less than a century ago The main catalyst for the sudden rise of medieval archaeology was a dramatic shift in emphasis from traditional political and constitutional to social and economic history In five countries the rise of medieval archaeology thus coincides in time and was ultimately caused by the imposition of Communist regimes The five women were therefore true pioneers in their field and respective countries

Sogdian Painting Guitty Azarpay, 2023-12-22 The Early Upper Paleolithic beyond Western Europe P. Jeffrey Brantingham, Steven L. Kuhn, Kristopher W. Kerry, 2004-06-02 This volume brings together prominent archaeologists working in areas outside Western Europe to discuss the most recent evidence for the origins of the early Upper Paleolithic and its relationship to the origin of modern humans With a wealth of primary data from archaeological sites and regions that have never before been published and discussions of materials from difficult to find sources the collection urges readers to reconsider the process of modern human behavioral origins Archaeological evidence continues to play a critical role in debates over the origins of anatomically modern humans The appearance of novel Upper Paleolithic technologies new patterns of land use expanded social networks and the emergence of complex forms of symbolic communication point to a behavioral revolution beginning sometime around 45 000 years ago Until recently most of the available evidence for this revolution derived from Western European archaeological contexts that suggested an abrupt replacement of Mousterian Middle Paleolithic with Aurignacian Upper Paleolithic adaptations In the absence of fossil association the behavioral transition was thought to reflect the biological replacement of archaic hominid populations by intrusive modern humans The contributors present new archaeological evidence that tells a very different story The Middle Upper Paleolithic transitions in areas as diverse as the Levant Eastern Central Europe and Central and Eastern Asia are characterized both by substantial behavioral continuity over the period 45 000 25 000 years ago and by a mosaic like pattern of shifting adaptations Together these essays will enliven and enrich the discussion of the shift from archaic to modern behavioral adaptations Contributors O Bar Yosef A Belfer Cohen R L Bettinger P J Brantingham N R Coinman A P Derevianko R G Elston J R Fox X Gao J M Geneste T Goebel E G le K W Kerry L Koulakovskaia J K Kozlowski S L Kuhn Y V Kuzmin D B Madsen A E Marks L Meignen T Meshveliani K Monigal P E Nehoroshev J W Olsen M Otte M C Stiner J Svoboda A Sytnik D Tseveendorj L B Vishnyatsky

Archaeology, Ethnology & Anthropology of Eurasia, 2001 Grave Disturbances Edeltraud Aspöck, Alison Klevnäs, Nils Müller-Scheeßel, 2020-07-31 Archaeologists excavating burials often find that they are not the first to disturb the remains of the dead Graves from many periods frequently show signs that others have been digging and have moved or taken away parts of the original funerary assemblage Displaced bones and artefacts traces of pits and damage to tombs or coffins can all provide clues about post burial activities The last two decades have seen a rapid rise in interest in the study of post depositional practices in graves which has now developed into a new subfield within mortuary archaeology This follows a long tradition of neglect with disturbed graves previously regarded as interesting only to the degree they revealed evidence of the original funerary deposit This book explores past human interactions with mortuary deposits delving into the different ways graves and human remains were approached by people in the past and the reasons that led to such encounters The primary focus of the volume is on cases of unexpected interference with individual graves soon after burial re encounters with human remains not anticipated by those who performed the funerary rites and constructed the tombs However a first step is always to distinguish these from natural and accidental processes and methodological approaches are a major theme of discussion Interactions with the remains of the dead are explored in eleven chapters ranging from the New Kingdom of Egypt to Viking Age Norway and from Bronze Age Slovakia to the ancient Maya Each discusses cases of re entries into graves including desecration tomb re use destruction of grave contents as well as the removal of artefacts and human remains for reasons from material gain to commemoration symbolic appropriation ancestral rites political chicanery and retrieval of relics The introduction presents many of the methodological issues which recur throughout the contributions as this is a developing area with new approaches being applied to analyze post depositional processes in graves
