Arms Production In Japan The Military Applications Of Civilian Technology:

Arms Production In Japan Reinhard Drifte, 2019-03-13 Although Japan's arms industry is still relatively small significant political economic and technological developments indicate its growing importance and pave the way for Japan's increasing involvement in arms production In this comprehensive study Dr Drifte examines both the domestic and international environments that are encouraging Japan

Military Production and Innovation in Spain Jordi Molas-Gallart, 1992 Military Production and Innovation in Spain extends the scope beyond the traditional analysis of arms producers to include components and sub systems manufacturers It combines a description of the changes experienced by Spanish military production with an analysis of its deeply rooted structural characteristics The book provides an in depth exploration of the Spanish military related industry its links with the rest of the economy and its potential role as a technological engine for the Spanish economy

China's Emergence as a Defense Technological Power Tai Ming Cheung, 2013-10-31 China is flexing its growing military and strategic clout in the pursuit of broadening national security interests At the same time the country's economic and technology policies have also become more nationalistic state centered and ambitious China's defense economy has set its sights on catching up with the West by the beginning of the 2020s and is making steady progress in building up its innovation capabilities although this is presently in the form of incremental and sustaining types of activities More high end disruptive forms of innovation that would lead to major breakthroughs are likely to be beyond China's reach in the near to medium term This volume provides a wide ranging and detailed assessment of the present state of the Chinese defense economy at a time of rapid change and accelerating advancement in its innovation capabilities and performance This collection of articles has three main goals 1 to locate China's defense innovation dynamics within broader historical technological and methodological frameworks of analysis 2 to assess the performance of the Chinese defense economy's six principal subsectors and 3 to compare China's approach to defense industrialization with major counterparts in the Asia Pacific region This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Strategic Studies

Military R&D after the Cold War Philip Gummett, Mikhail Boutoussov, Janos Farkas, Arie Rip, 2012-12-06 Countries establish defence industries for various reasons Chief among these are usually a concern with national security and a desire to be as independent as possible in the supply of the armaments which they believe they need But defence industries are different from most other industries Their customer is governments Their product is intended to safeguard the most vital interests of the state The effectiveness of these products in the real rather than the experimental sense is not normally tested at the time of purchase If or when it is tested many other factors such as the quality of political and military leadership enter into the equation so complicating judgments about the quality of the armaments and about the reliability of the promises made by the manufacturers All of these features make the defence sector an unusually political industrial sector This has been true in both the command economies of the former Soviet Union and its satellites and in the market or mixed economies of the west

In both cases to speak only a little over generally the defence sector has been particularly privileged and particularly protected from the usual economic vicissitudes In both cases too its centrality to the perceived vital interests of the state has given it an unusual degree of political access and support

Japan's Military Renaissance? Keisuke Matsuyama, Ron Matthews, 2016-07-27 The purpose of this book is to examine the security related aspects behind Japan's emerging internationalism Japan has for some time been projecting a higher international profile which the Diet's approval to allow Japanese armed forces to operate abroad is but one manifestation The book's scope is not limited to military issues it embraces a spectrum of security related topics such as constitutional amendment international re alignment and cooperation defence industrialisation Japan US relations and technology leakage and Japan's role in the new international order

The Arms Dynamic in World Politics Barry Buzan, Eric Herring, 1998 Presented as a successor to the Cold War era book An Introduction to Strategic Studies this volume explores issues of military security through a framework that links the issues of technology and world politics Arguing that the technological aspect of the global strategic environment is partway through a centuries long process of transformation sped up by the advent of the information age the authors examine such issues as different levels of industrial development on security what they argue is the relative infrequency of the use of force between states the use of military threats such as mass destruction concepts that military means create problems in themselves such as fear of war and insecurity and finally ways in which regulatory schemes such as disarmament can be put to use to solve some of those problems Paper edition unseen 22 50 Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR

The U.S., Japan, and Asia Frances Scott, 1993

Japanese Defence Syed Javed Maswood, 1990 This book focuses on the defence policy of the Nakasone administration and attempts to provide an explanation for the policy measures which its administration implemented or initiated It suggests that the widening disparity between economic interests and political power forced Japan to review the traditional bases for defence policy making and prompted the search for a balance that would allow the country a more active role in the international sphere The book is organized around the central theme that Nakasone's defence policy can be understood as an attempt to rehabilitate Japan as a normal state and end the state of affairs that had relegated it to a unique and low position

Militarisation and Demilitarisation in Contemporary Japan Glenn D. Hook, 2003-12-16 The intertwined issues of Japanese identity and normality are at the centre of the tension between internal and external pressures on Japanese defence and security policies With chapters on peace thought the militarisation and demilitarisation of language as well as the hard aspects of the Japanese military build up in the 1980s and the response to the Gulf War in the 1990s this study challenges many of the preconceived notions on Japanese defence and security policies and the policy making process in Japan

The Politics of Defense in Japan Joseph P. Keddell, 1993 Examines how the Japanese government used a series of incremental measures in three different periods to manage conflicting international and domestic pressure over defense issues in the context of the country's military dependence on the US since World War II Details the influence and origins of such constraints as the one percent of GNP ceiling of defense spending various international treaties and the strong public opinion against the military and concludes that domestic political tranquility is more important to the government than military parity with other countries Annotation copyright by Book News Inc Portland OR
