International Law and the Proliferation of Weapons of Mass Destruction Daniel Joyner, 2009 Proliferation of WMD technologies is by no means a new concern for the international community Indeed since the signing of the Nuclear Non proliferation Treaty in 1968 tremendous energies have been expended upon diplomatic efforts to create a web of treaties and international organisations regulating the production and stockpiling of WMD sensitive materials within states as well as their spread through the increasingly globalised channels of international trade to other states and non state actors However the intervention in 2003 by Western powers in Iraq has served as an illustration of the importance of greater understanding of and attention to this area of law as disagreements over its content and application have once again lead to a potentially destabilising armed intervention by members of the United Nations into the sovereign territory of another member state Other ongoing disputes between states regarding the character of obligations assumed under non proliferation treaty instruments and the effect of international organisations decisions in this area form some of the most contentious and potentially destabilising issues of foreign policy concern for many states This book provides a comprehensive analysis of international law and organisations in the area of WMD proliferation It will serve both as a reference for understanding the law as it currently exists in its political and economic context as well as an analysis of areas in which amendments to existing law and organisations are needed

Towards a Peaceful Development of Cyberspace Thomas Reinhold, 2024-04-01 The cyberspace and its global infrastructures are essential for our civilizations the economy and administration However cyberspace is also increasingly developing into an intelligence and military operational area visible in the creation of military cyber departments and the integration of cyberspace into states security and defense strategies Unfortunately many of the established toolset of transparency de escalation and arms control measures do not work for cyberspace due to its specific technical characteristics But how de escalation of state led conflicts in cyberspace can be achieved and how arms control of cyber weapons can be developed Based on a technical perspective with regard to the underlying political challenges the book follows an approach of adopting already existing technical measures from other fields of the computer science It presents a classification system for cyberweapons an approach for the mutual reduction of vulnerability stockpiles and provides an approach to prove the non involvement in a cyber conflict Beyond this it aims to provide some impulses regarding the responsibility and creative options of the computer science with a view to the peaceful development and use of cyberspace
