U.S. Army War College Guide to National Security Policy and Strategy J. Boone Bartholomees, 2001 The U.S. Army and the New National Security Strategy, 2003 The Army asked the RAND Arroyo Center in fall 2001 to look at the implications for the Army of the new national security strategy This was exactly the right question given the remarkable changes that are occurring in the world in terms of both advances in technologies and how the strategic environment is evolving What we decided was to draw together a group of RAND researchers who have been working over the past few years on a variety of issues for the Army and use their research as a springboard for answering this question The result is the chapters in this volume which span the broad range of subjects that will be on the Army's future agenda strategic operational programmatic and budgetary Each of the authors describes his or her view of the most critical issues facing the Army and then what the Army needs to do The substantive analysis in this report was completed in February 2003 as the international community was still debating its future policies toward Iraq what happens in Iraq will almost certainly add to the complexity of the strategic environment in which the U S Army will operate and could well bring more urgency to the changes that the authors of this report call on the Army to undertake Taken as a whole the report provides the Army with a perspective on its ongoing transformation and where it needs refinement In this way the report aims to engage the broader defense community in the debate over which forces and capabilities the Army needs to be able to serve the nation in the future as well as it has in the past The report should be of interest to anyone concerned about the future of the U S military in general and the U S Army in particular U.S. Army War College Guide to National Security Issues: National security policy and strategy J. Policy in Central Europe, 1989-2019 Tamás Csiki Varga, 2023-09-19 Central Europe may be perceived as a homogeneous subunit a geographic locale that shares similar cultural traits common histories and a linked troubled past and one that has embarked on a joint process of European integration in the past three decades A closer look reveals that there are significant differences hidden in the cracks and the states of Central Europe exhibit large variety in two key elements that makes regional cooperation uniquely challenging their strategic cultures and their relations toward Russia Two major factors determine a state s foreign policy and international ambition its perception of the security environment and the capabilities it possesses Policy experts provide an overview of how these two factors and by extension state level foreign policies have varied in the post Cold War era up until 2019 The contributing authors in this volume take a deep dive into nine Central and Eastern European states policies Austria Croatia the Czech Republic Hungary Poland Romania Slovakia Serbia and Ukraine The assessments provided in this book attempt to deconstruct the monolithic regional level approach through the methodical study of the states of the region This approach will be particularly useful for scholars and interested individuals who want to understand why and how individual Central European states participate in NATO and EU security and defence initiatives and policies This book was originally published as a special issue of Defense Security Analysis Professional Journal of the United States Army, 1993 The United States Army ... Modernization Plan, 2003 The Strategic Defence and Security Review and the National Security Strategy Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Defence Committee, 2011-08-03 This report notes mounting concern that UK Armed Forces may be falling below the minimum utility required to deliver the commitments that they are currently being tasked to carry out let alone the tasks they are likely to face between 2015 to 2020 when it is acknowledged that there will be capability gaps The Committee is concerned that UK Armed Forces will be continually operating at the maximum level envisaged by the Defence Planning Assumptions The Committee is not convinced that this aspiration can be achieved by co operation with our allies given the challenges of aligning political with operational needs The SDSR identified seven military tasks and the Defence Planning Assumptions that underpin them However the Review fails to show how decisions such as those on the Aircraft Carriers and Nimrod MRA4 will lead to the Armed Forces being able to undertake those military tasks The Committee has serious concerns over the realisation of what is called Future Force 2020 the Government s intended shape of the Armed Forces from 2020 particularly as the provision of the necessary resources is only a Government aspiration not Government policy The MoD must reform and ensure substantially improved transparency and control over its finance and budgetary practices When committing to undertake new operations the Government should state from the outset where that operation fits in the Defence Planning Assumptions and which of the military tasks it is meeting The Committee is concerned that the Government seems to have postponed the sensible aspiration of bringing commitments and resources into line in that it has taken on the new commitment of Libya while reducing the resources available to MoD Defence Diplomacy and National Security
