Around the Day in Eighty Worlds Julio Cortázar,1990 Around the Day in Eighty Worlds Martin

Savransky,2021-04-19 In Around the Day in Eighty Worlds Martin Savransky calls for a radical politics of the pluriverse amid the ongoing devastation of the present Responding to an epoch marked by the history of colonialism and ecological devastation Savransky draws on the pragmatic pluralism of William James to develop what Savransky calls a pluralistic realism an understanding of the world as simultaneously one and many ongoing and unfinished underway and yet to be made Savransky explores the radical multifariousness of reality by weaving key aspects of James s thought together with divergent worlds and stories of Magellan s circumnavigation sorcery in Mozambique God s felt presence among a group of evangelicals in California visible spirits in Zambia and ghosts in the wake of the 2011 tsunami in Japan Throughout he experiments with these storied worlds to dramatize new ways of approaching the politics of radical difference and the possibility of transforming reality By exploring and constructing relations between James s pluralism and the ontological turn in anthropology Savransky offers a new conceptualization of the pluriverse that fosters modes of thinking and living otherwise

A case is made for their urgency in relation to contemporary issues and concerns and for their importance in terms of being both from and for more marginalised communities The book concludes with a discussion of machine writing and especially our collaboration with artificial intelligence language models Political Breakout: Situation, Need, Action Tony Fry, 2025-04-08 The book is totally preoccupied with thinking beyond existing political thought and institutions It recognizes that irrespective of who or where we are and no matter if we know it or not we now all live in the end times Most explicitly this moment is expressed by evolutionary biology making clear that planetary life is at the start of the sixth extinction event a situation indivisible from climate change impacts The already unstable geopolitical state of the world and its dangers will amplify the coming eco environmental conditions resulting in population displacement resource stress critical conditions of food security and conflict Globally across all political ideologies existing institutional politics demonstrate an incapability of responding to these situations There is an evident temporal disjuncture between how extant politics is positioned in time and the moment of an ever accelerating end times Effectively political institutions their theory and practice are out of step with terminal speeding defuturing events As the book makes clear this situation needs to be fully recognised At the same time there are visions and political positions presenting themselves as directing what will come after the end times Viewing these positions indicates that the future will be plural and contested In one direction technology and corporations will become even more powerful as a critique of the literature on accelerationism shows But at the other extreme a huge swathe of displaced humanity is almost certain to be abandoned In the face of these prospects new political thinking and practices are essential But this will not come from the existing political paradigm Such change needs a new political imagination Responding to this need is a primary focus of the book To do this the influence of Spinoza on political imagination provides a key point of engagement and departure
