Arouse Suspicion:

Explain Me This Adele E. Goldberg, 2019-02-12 Why our use of language is highly creative yet also constrained We use words and phrases creatively to express ourselves in ever changing contexts readily extending language constructions in new ways Yet native speakers also implicitly know when a creative and easily interpretable formulation such as Explain me this or She considered to go doesn't sound quite right In this incisive book Adele Goldberg explores how these creative but constrained language skills emerge from a combination of general cognitive mechanisms and experience Shedding critical light on an enduring linguistic paradox Goldberg demonstrates how words and abstract constructions are generalized and constrained in the same ways When learning language we record partially abstracted tokens of language within the high dimensional conceptual space that is used when we speak or listen Our implicit knowledge of language includes dimensions related to form function and social context At the same time abstract memory traces of linguistic usage events cluster together on a subset of dimensions with overlapping aspects strengthened via repetition In this way dynamic categories that correspond to words and abstract constructions emerge from partially overlapping memory traces and as a result distinct words and constructions compete with one another each time we select them to express our intended messages While much of the research on this puzzle has favored semantic or functional explanations over statistical ones Goldberg's approach stresses that both the functional and statistical aspects of constructions emerge from the same learning mechanisms

Nonverbal Communication in Close Relationships Laura K. Guerrero, Kory Floyd, 2006-08-15 This volume focuses on nonverbal messages and their role in close relationships friends family and romantic partners For scholars and students in personal relationship study as well as social psychology interpersonal nonverbal communication family The Day She Cradled Me Sacha De Bazin, 2012-03-02 A fascinating novel based on the life of the infamous baby farmer Minnie Dean the only woman in New Zealand history ever to be hanged Accused of infanticide and awaiting trial and then sentence Minnie confides in Reverend Lindsay Alternating between these two contrasting personalities the novel tells Minnie's version of events From her oppressive upbringing in Victorian Scotland to adulthood in Southland Minnie battles her own nature and the hardships of colonial life and social hypocrisy Once Minnie is tried she has to face her impending execution while Reverend Lindsay who has become her unlikely ally fights to prevent her paying the ultimate price for society's sins

Holocaust and Memory Barbara Engelking,2005-08-22 Originally published in Polish to great acclaim and based on interviews with survivors of the Holocaust in Poland Holocaust and Memory provides a moving description of their life during the war and the sense they made of it The book begins by looking at the differences between the wartime experiences of Jews and Poles in occupied Poland both in terms of Nazi legislation and individual experiences On the Aryan side of the ghetto wall Jews could either be helped or blackmailed by Poles The largest section of the book reconstructs everyday life in the ghetto The psychological consequences of wartime experiences are explored including interviews with survivors who stayed on in Poland after the war and were victims of anti Semitism again in 1968 These discussions bring into question some of the accepted survivor stereotypes found in Holocaust literature A final chapter looks at the legacy of the Holocaust the problems of transmitting experience and of the place of the Holocaust in Polish history and culture

Queer Nations Jarrod Hayes,2000-04 The Maghreb Morocco Algeria Tunisia has been inhabited for millennia by a heterogeneous populace However in the wake of World War II when independence movements began to gain momentum in these French colonies the dominant national discourses attempted to define national identities by exclusion One rallying cry from the 1930s was Islam is my religion Arabic is my language Algeria is my fatherland In this incisive postcolonial study Jarrod Hayes uses literary analysis to examine how Francophone novelists from the Maghreb engaged in a diametric nation building project Their works imagined a diverse nation peopled by those who were excluded by the dominant political discourses especially those who did not conform to traditional sexual norms By incorporating representations of marginal sexualities sexual dissidence and gender insubordination Maghrebian novelists imagined an anticolonial struggle that would result in sexual liberation and envisioned nations that could be defined and developed inclusively

Soldier Q: Kidnap the Emperor! Jay Garnett, 2013-12-12 In 1975 the Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia recently deposed in a Communist revolution was declared dead In the hands of the brutal army officer Mengistu Haile Mariam the country descended into chaos and bloodshed Then an astonishing truth emerged The Emperor was not dead He had been kept alive in prison by Lieutenant Colonel Mengistu whose objective was to wring from him his massive fortune bullion jewels cash and shares amounting to 2.5 billion lodged in Swiss British and New York banks In London bankers and diplomats were appalled The banks could not contemplate the loss of such a huge sum The British and American governments would not tolerate a ruthless Communist regime's acquisition of wealth it would destabilise the Middle East and all East Africa There was only one answer kidnap the Emperor And there was only one organisation capable of mounting the operation the legendary Special Air Service the SAS Three men Peter Halloran Michael Rourke and Richard Collins were selected for this hazardous mission which was like nothing the regiment had ever tackled before to penetrate a remote desert fortress and then to escape through arid highlands with a frail old man in tow Only extraordinary duplicity would get them in Only acute tactical expertise and merciless improvisation would get them out And if anything went wrong it would be as if they had never existed
