Arms Control At Sea:

Arms Control At Sea J Richard Hill, 2024-04-01 Originally published in 1989 this book reviews the history of maritime control measures from before the First World War and provides a critical examination of both the objectives of maritime power and the concepts of disarmament peace zones parity verifiability and peaceful co existence It argues that the objectives or maritime power are not necessarily incompatible with international security and that strategic deterrence can contribute to improved security Limitation measures it is argued can in some cases be double edged endangering other security fields and having a destabilizing effect The book stresses the need for non absolute solutions in order to achieve a reasonable level of security and makes proposals for both structural and confidence building measures along those lines

Security at Sea Stockholm International Peace Research Institute, 1990 Since the Second World War five navies are known to have acquired nuclear weapons and naval forces and activities around the world have become increasingly important and dangerous However there has been no serious consideration of naval arms control for more than forty years SIPRI gathered together a group of experts from eight nations to consider the problems of naval forces and the possibilities for arms control This book is a product of that conference and it presents for the first time a broad and detailed assessment of the dangers of the naval arms race problems with arms control possible approaches confidence building measures and verification technologies

Superpowers at Sea Richard W. Fieldhouse, Shunji Taoka, 1989 The arms race at sea is a dangerous nuclear race which is causing growing international concern and must be brought under control What are the hard facts about the situation This book documents the realities of the competition especially the nuclearization of naval forces and dispels some of the myths surrounding the naval arms race This incisive analysis of naval forces of the East and West concludes that contrary to common perceptions the US and its allies have a considerable military advantage over the Soviet Navy a trend which is expected to continue for the foreseeable future The authors describe in detail the widespread nuclearization of naval forces of all five nuclear navies analyse the implications for security and arms control and conclude with suggestions for possible arms control measures

The Foundations of Modern Arms Control Robert M. Blum, 2024-04-30 This book is an international history of the foundation of modern arms control highlighting the fact that the instrument is varied resilient successful and enduring The narrative begins after the Napoleonic wars when newly arisen peace movements focused on arbitration as a path to ending the war system It moves on to the international community's embrace of total and complete disarmament and then to its acceptance of more limited measures by 1968 including the agreements that remain in force today The book connects the past to the present of multiple negotiations successful and failed and underlines how the peace movement increasingly influenced the national policy of the major Western powers especially the United States It also highlights the increasing diversification of arms control players including women and people of color as well as the countries they represented Based on original research in multinational records and the latest scholarship the book illustrates the reasons multilateral arms control remains a key instrument of international relations The chapters are organized both chronologically and thematically with the result that they cover different amounts of time in order to encompass a given issue and to capture the development of particular threads The main narrative evolves into a decadeslong quest for a global treaty on general and complete disarmament which otherwise paces the book and shapes its chapters This book will be of much interest to students of arms control global governance peace studies and International Relations Arms Control Report
