

Listen! you hear the grating roar
Of pebbles which the waves suck back, and fling
At their return, up the high strand,
Begin, and cease, and then begin again,
With tremulous cadence slow, and bring
The eternal note of sadness—

Sophocles long ago,
Heard it on the Aegean, and it brought
Into your mind the quarrel-dimmed flames
Of human misery, and the wars of Greece; and you, the old man, calmly
Heard it once, and many-times you too

Heard it, until it thrills in you, as though
The sea of faith had left its shingle

Wet, under a cruel fall of earth, and then
Lay like the folds of a bright girdle furled;
But now I only hear
Its melancholy, long, withdrawing roar,
Retreating to the breath
Of the night-wind down the vast edges drear
And naked shingles of the world.

Ah, love, let us be true
To one another! for the world, which seems
To lie before us like a land of dream,
So various, so beautiful, so new,
Hath really neither joy, nor love, nor light,
Nor certitude, nor peace, nor help for pain;
And we are here as on a darkling plain
Swept with confused alarms of struggle and flight,
Where ignorant armies clash by night.

Arnolds Thomas Arnold His Family:

The Arnolds Meriol Trevor, 1973 The Arnolds; Thomas Arnold and His Family Meriol Trevor, 1973 Mrs Humphry Ward and Greenian Philosophy Helen Loader, 2019-03-26 This book examines Mary Ward's distinctive insight into late Victorian and Edwardian society as a famous writer and reformer who was inspired by the philosopher and British idealist Thomas Hill Green. As a talented woman who had studied among Oxford University intellectuals in the 1870s and the granddaughter of Dr Arnold of Rugby, Mrs Humphry Ward as she was best known was in a unique position to participate in the debates, issues and events that shaped her generation: religious doubt and Christianity, educational reforms, socialism, women's suffrage and the First World War. Helen Loader examines a range of biographical sources alongside Mary Ward's writings and social reform activities to demonstrate how she expressed and engaged with Greenian idealism both in theory and practice and made a significant contribution to British Society.

Bible and Novel Norman Vance, 2013-07-04 This study seeks to develop a new context for reading later Victorian fiction and for understanding the process of secularization. Norman Vance explores how the novels of George Eliot, Thomas Hardy, Mary Ward and Rider Haggard acquired greater cultural centrality just as the authority of the scriptures and of traditional religious teaching seemed to be declining and offered a new forum for the exploration of religious and moral themes.

Thomas Arnold's public-school reforms and their importance for mid-Victorian British society Markus Schulte, 2008-02-01 Seminar paper from the year 2007 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies, Culture and Applied Geography, grade 2.0. Carl von Ossietzky University of Oldenburg, Fakultät III Sprach und Kulturwissenschaften, course Victorian Britain, language English, abstract: This coursework reflects on Thomas Arnold's reforms at Victorian public schools and their influence on British society. Thomas Hughes's famous semi-autobiographical Tom Brown's Schooldays is used to show how these changes affected the individual pupil and seen from a macro perspective, Britain's mid-Victorian society, especially its economy. Diese Hauptseminararbeit beschäftigt sich mit Thomas Arnolds public school Reformen und deren Auswirkung auf die Britische Gesellschaft. Thomas Hughes' halbautobiographischer Roman Tom Brown's Schooldays soll die Auswirkungen auf den einzelnen public school Schüler zeigen aus einer Makroperspektive, die Effekte auf die mittelviktorianische Britische Gesellschaft, insbesondere die Wirtschaft.

The Silent Revolution and the Making of Victorian England Herbert Schlossberg, 2000 Schlossberg, senior research associate, the Ethics and Public Policy Center, argues that by the time Victoria became queen in 1837, Victorian culture was already in place. Focusing on the period between the 1790s and the 1840s, he shows how the religious revival that took hold of England's culture constituted a silent revolution that formed the basis of Victorian culture. He describes various manifestations of the religious revival, focusing on the main renewal movements in the Church of England and the spread of evangelicalism to dissenting religious groups. Island Boy Photobook: My Life in Pictures 1 Arnold E. van Beverhoudt, Jr., 2014-11-20 In a trio of Island Boy Photobooks subtitled My Life in Pictures Arnold presents a visual history of his family and that of his wife Helena Through hundreds of family photos most in full color My Life in Pictures 1 presents Arnold s and Helena s grandparents parents and other family members The story continues through 70 years of family and island history from 1910 to 1979 That period had its personal and community tragedies including the fatal crashes of two jet airliners and a massive but thankfully non fatal fire aboard a visiting cruise ship The 1970s also had its happy events including Arnold and Helena s wedding and the birth of their daughter Selene Future installments in the trilogy will focus on the 1980s and 1990s in My Life in Pictures 2 and bring things up to date in the 21st Century in My Life in Pictures 3

Domestic Biography Christopher Tolley,1997 Christopher Tolley has written a fascinating account of the influence of evangelicalism upon eminent Victorians from the members of the Clapham sect down to the more secular Bloomsbury group Recording family life and deaths was an important ritual in Victorian households and out of this habit grew a new literary genre the domestic biography celebrating individual achievement family piety and domestic virtue Using a wide range of hitherto unpublished material from family archives Dr Tolley analyses the biographical traditions exemplified by the public and private utterances of different generations of four leading Victorian families Macaulay Stephen Wilberforce and Thornton This book is a perceptive commentary on the role of the domestic biography as a testament to the cultural legacy of the Victorian intelligentsia and the creation of family values

A Victorian Wanderer Bernard Bergonzi,2003 Bernard Bergonzi has written an absorbing and fascinating biography of Thomas Arnold the Younger 1824 1900 son of the celebrated headmaster of Rugby and younger brother of Matthew father of Mrs Humphrey Ward and grandfather of Aldous Huxley A scholar teacher and self styled wanderer Arnold s path in life took him after a brilliant start at Oxford to colonial New Zealand to Tasmania to Dublin back to Oxford and once more to Dublin where he died in 1900 This biography explores Arnold s diverse path through academia his complex relationship with Catholicism and his acquaintances with such luminaries as Wordsworth Arthur Hugh Clough Lewis Carroll Gerard Manley Hopkins and James Joyce

Praisesong of Survival Richard Kenneth Barksdale,1992

Theology and the Victorian Novel James Russell Perkin,2009 Religious issues played a prominent role in Victorian England and had a profound influence on the culture of that period In Theology And The Victorian Novel J Russell Perkin shows that even the apparently secular world of the realist novel is shaped by the theological debates of its time Beginning with a wide ranging introduction that explains why a theological reading of Victorian fiction is both rewarding and timely Perkin also addresses religion s return to prominence in the twenty first century confounding earlier predictions of its imminent demise Chapters on William Thackeray Charlotte Bront Charlotte

Yonge Anthony Trollope George Eliot and Thomas Hardy are followed by a concluding discussion of Mary Ward and Walter Pater that relates Pater's Marius the Epicurean to postmodern theology and shows how it remains a religious classic for our own time. Informed by extensive knowledge of the religion and culture of the period, Theology And The Victorian Novel significantly alters the way that the Victorian novel should be read. Q. D. Leavis: Collected Essays: Volume 3 Queenie Dorothy Leavis, Q. D. Leavis, 1983. This third volume of Q. D. Leavis's essays brings together pieces on hitherto unexplored aspects of Victorian literature. Most of these date from towards the end of her life and are previously unpublished. There are also essays and reviews which appeared originally in Scrutiny. Women Writing Home, 1700-1920 Susan Clair Imbarrato, 2024-07-31. Assembles a range of women's letters from the former British Empire. These letters written home are not only historical sources; they are also representations of the state of the Empire in far-off lands sent home to Britain and occasionally other centres established as home. The Arnoldian, 1986. The history and antiquities of the County of Suffolk Alfred Suckling, 1846. Black Tom, 2002-04-23. Professor Terence Copley's new biography of Thomas Arnold combines a study of his life with an examination of Arnold's influence as an educator, a theologian, and a churchman. Arnold was only a Victorian for five years; he died in 1842, but he has been remembered as a major figure of the age, not least because Lytton Strachey chose him as one of his objects of ridicule and pillory in Eminent Victorians (1918). He stands as a monument to the development of the 19th-century public school system, whose influence spread far beyond Britain's upper class. Arnold was the celebrated headmaster of Rugby School, and Hughes's Tom Brown's Schooldays (1857) fixed him in the public imagination. Copley assesses both the uncritical Victorian versions of Arnold's life, including Hughes and Dean Stanley's original Life, and the sneering assessment of his influence perpetuated by Strachey, to provide the first rounded portrait of Arnold. In conclusion, Copley explores the possible legacy that this great but neglected figure has left to our age. Marcella Mary Augusta Ward, 2002-03-21. Marcella, young and with a new womanly independence, has a yearning to help the poor. When a gamekeeper is murdered near where she lives, Marcella finds herself at odds with her wealthy fiancé over beliefs about property and justice. The discovery leads Marcella to pursue, among other things, a career in nursing. In settings ranging from village cottages, London slums, and hospital wards to fashionable drawing rooms and the Ladies Gallery of the Houses of Parliament, the book combines a gripping story with serious issues: socialism, rural and urban poverty, poaching laws, journalistic ethics, the Woman Question, inspiring critics to liken Marcella to George Eliot's novels. The Broadview Literary Texts edition records the substantive differences between the two major editions published during Ward's lifetime and included among the many appendices are news accounts of the murder trial and executions that inspired the novel and previously unpublished letters by Ward. NB: Mary Augusta Ward has traditionally been known as Mrs Humphry Ward. Lectures and Essays in Criticism Matthew Arnold, 1962. The basis of Arnold's high reputation as literary critic. Letters of Thomas Arnold the Younger, 1850-1900 Thomas Arnold, 1980. Thomas Arnold, second son of Dr Arnold of Rugby, left

England in search of a new life first in New Zealand and then in Van Diemen's Land Tasmania in 1850 There he became an inspector of schools and married the beautiful Julia Sorrell The record covered in this second volume of his letters begins at this point and continues with a generous selection of his letters to the end of his life in 1900 The earlier letters give a vivid impression of life in Van Diemen's Land and of his own home life Arnold holds an interesting if minor place in literary and educational history However the great strength and fascination of these letters probably lies in their record of the man himself caught up sometimes tempestuously in the movements of his time particularly in his religious unsettlement and wrestling with Roman Catholicism and of a marriage in which agonising disagreements on the deepest issues threatened but never overwhelmed the mutual love of both
