Arousing Sensation A Case Study Of Controversy Surrounding Art And The Erotic:

Arousing Sensation Walter Phillips Gallery, 1999 When the exhibition Much Sense Erotics and Life appeared at the Walter Phillips Gallery in 1992 public political and media interest was intense The artists explored issues of sexuality expressing frank viewpoints on topics such as body image and gay and lesbian sexuality The explicit content of their work sparked an uproar Politicians local and national media and coalitions of arts organizations began a rancorous media debate alternately battering and boosting The Banff Centre for the Arts and its support of the exhibition Arousing Sensation offers a fascinating case study of a controversy concerning freedom of expression funding for the arts censorship sexuality political responsibility and journalistic integrity The book combines thoughtful analysis critical discourse and full media clippings from the public debate

A World Made Sexy Paul Rutherford, 2007-01-01 Eroticism is a constant presence in modern society encompassing almost every aspect of our daily lives It is a product of one of the major commercial and political enterprises of the twentieth and twenty first centuries the cultivation of desire desire for sex desire for wealth desire for entertainment Paul Rutherford's A World Made Sexy looks at modern civilization's ongoing project to manufacture and encourage public wants building a utopia where just about everyone who is affluent dreams plays and of course shops A World Made Sexy uses museum exhibitions art books magazines films and television to examine the rise and purpose of eroticism first in America but soon across the affluent world Starting with a brief foray into the representation of history as past pornography Rutherford explores a sexual liberation movement shaped by the ideas of Marx and Freud the erotic styles of Salvador Dali and pop art the pioneering use of publicity as erotica by Playboy and other products and the growing concerns of cultural critics over the emergence of a regime of stimulation In one case study Rutherford pairs James Bond and Madonna in order to examine the link between eroticism and aggression He further details how television advertising after 1980 constructed a theatre of the libido to entice the buying public and concludes by situating the Eros project in the wider context of Michel Foucault's account of the administration of life and specifically sexuality during the modern era A World Made Sexy is about power and pleasure emancipation and domination and the relationship between the personal passions and social controls that have crafted desire
