Archaeology Technical Abstracts, 1976 Art in the Archaeological Imagination Dragos Gheorghiu, 2020-02-02 The book discusses the creative mental processes of the prehistoric and contemporary artists as well as of the archaeologists studying them from the perspective of cognition and art Its intention is to highlight the artistic thinking within the imagination of the archaeologist as well as to discuss the concepts of imagination and art in the current scientific research From this perspective the book suggests a type of research closer to the complexity of the human nature and human thinking that can approach cultural and psychological subjects ignored until now It is hoped that one of the results of the book will be the formulation of new meanings for art from the perspective of archaeology Responding to the recent ongoing growing interest in the art archaeology interaction the editor has carefully selected papers written by a series of eminent European and American scholars with a background in ancient and contemporary art symbolic thinking semiotics and archaeological imagination with the intention of introducing new arguments and discussions into the emerging art archaeology discourse The book is alongside contemporary video art performance art and relational arts practices Here the parallel roles of artists as makers of new worlds and archaeologists as makers of pasts worlds are brought together to understand the influences of human creativity Museums and the Construction of Disciplines Christopher Whitehead, 2013-11-20 Museums and museum politics were important elements in the development of the disciplines of Archaeology and Art History in nineteenth century Britain Here Christopher Whitehead explores some of the key debates and events which led to the conceptual differentiation and physical separation of archaeological and artistic material culture looking especially at the ways in which objects and histories were contested within museum politics For example in the 1850s the status of Egyptian antiquities as art or archaeology was keenly debated and this related closely to questions about which kinds of museum should house them and the possible histories and epistemologies in which they might figure This concise study serves as a basis for a discussion of the continued intellectual legacy of this for our understanding management and presentation of the past in the museum and in curricula It is argued that by understanding the politics and circumstances through which the two disciplines were delimited and distinguished from one another we may be able to glimpse retrospectively the possibility of alternative art histories and alternative archaeologies The Material and the Ideal Anthony Cutler, Arietta Papaconstantinou, 2007 The volume ranges from the close examination of specific objects to larger questions of their signification for the medieval societies that fashioned them and the ways in which they have been and are currently interpreted Greek Art & Archaeology Richard T. Neer, 2018 A new edition of this accessible survey of the Greek world covering two thousand years of material culture Art and Archaeology, 1930 From Art to Archaeology, 1991 The Art and Archaeology of the Moche Steve Bourget, Kimberly L. Jones, 2009-06-03 Renowned for their monumental architecture and rich visual culture the Moche inhabited the north coast of Peru during the Early Intermediate Period AD 100 800 Archaeological discoveries over the past century and the dissemination of Moche artifacts to museums around the world have given rise to a widespread and continually increasing fascination with this complex culture which expressed its beliefs about the human and supernatural worlds through finely crafted ceramic and metal objects of striking realism and visual sophistication In this standard setting work an international multidisciplinary team of scholars who are at the forefront of Moche research present a state of the art overview of Moche culture The contributors address various issues of Moche society religion and material culture based on multiple lines of evidence and methodologies including iconographic studies archaeological investigations and forensic analyses Some of the articles present the results of long term studies of major issues in Moche iconography while others focus on more specifically defined topics such as site studies the influence of El Niño Southern Oscillation on Moche society the nature of Moche warfare and sacrifice and the role of Moche visual culture in decoding social and political frameworks Substance, Memory, Display Colin Renfrew, Chris Gosden, Elizabeth DeMarrais, 2004 Contemporary art and modern archaeology are increasingly seen to share much common ground yet their interactions have yet to be fully investigated This innovative volume explores key themes including the role of display in art in the practice of archaeology and in daily life and the material transformations which underlie the physical reality of the archaeological record as much as the creative processes of the contemporary artist. Prominent practising artists Simon Callery and Antony Gormley provide seminal papers considering the role of materiality and embodiment in their own work exploring issues that are directly relevant to current archaeological thinking. They are joined by archaeologists actively involved with visual approaches including Anwen Cooper, Christopher Evans, Steven Mithen, Joshua Pollard, Nicholas Saunders, Aaron Watson and the editorial trio. The book is lavishly illustrated in colour.

Breaking the Surface Douglass Whitfield Bailey, 2018. In Breaking the Surface Doug Bailey offers a radical alternative for understanding Neolithic houses providing much needed insight not just into prehistoric practice but into another way of doing archaeology. Using his years of fieldwork experience excavating the early Neolithic pit houses of southeastern Europe, Bailey exposes and elucidates a previously under-theorized aspect of prehistoric pit construction: the actions and consequences of digging defined as breaking the surface of the ground. Breaking the Surface works through the consequences of this redefinition in order to redirect scholarship on the excavation and interpretation of pit houses in Neolithic Europe, offering detailed critiques of current interpretations of these earliest European architectural constructions. The work of the book is performed by juxtaposing richly detailed discussions of archaeological sites Etton and The Wilsford Shaft in the UK and Magura in Romania with the work of three artists who cut: Ron Athey, Gordon Matta-Clark, and Lucio Fontana, with deep and detailed examinations of the philosophy of holes, the perceptual psychology of shapes, and the linguistic anthropology of cutting and breaking words as well as with cultural diversity in framing spatial reference and through an examination of pre-modern ungrounded ways of living. Breaking the Surface is as much a creative act on its own in its mixture of work from disparate periods and regions, its use of radical text interruption, and its juxtaposition of text and imagery as it is an interpretive statement about prehistoric architecture. Unflinching and exhilarating, it is a major development in the growing subdiscipline of art archaeology.
