Arms Control, the FRG, and the Future of East-West Relations Wolfram F. Hanrieder, 2019-04-05 The political dimension of arms control has always had special significance for the Federal Republic of Germany not only because of the issue of a divided Germany and a partitioned Europe but also because of the country's key position in the Western security alliance In the wake of NATO's recent decision to deploy more nuclear weapons on German soil and in the absence of progress on arms control it has become clear that arms control measures and negotiations have assumed an importance far beyond their military technical components fundamental questions about the nature of East West relations and the future shape of the transatlantic alliance and the European political order also have been raised These essays explore the implications of arms control negotiations for the Federal Republic of Germany and consider why Germany has traditionally found it impossible to divorce considerations of arms control from their larger political context The Future: Warfare, military forces and technology, 1989 The Department of State Bulletin, 1989 The official monthly record of United States foreign policy The German Problem Transformed Thomas Banchoff, 1999-05-24 A systematic examination of Germany's post reunification foreign policy from a broader historical and analytical perspective Conventional Arms Control and East-West Security Institute for East-West Security Studies, 1989 This important and timely work prepared by the leading researchers planners and policymakers from both Eastern and Western alliances analyzes the major issues in the Vienna talks on conventional forces in Europe involving NATO and Warsaw Pact nations It is likely to have a significant influence on the course of these negotiations and on emerging debate on conventional arms control The contributors met in Moscow prior to the Vienna conference to review and compare their analyses and revised them thereafter for publication in this work Rethinking National Security Frances Scott, 1990 Bases Abroad Robert E.
