Art And Its Significance An Anthology Of Aesthetic Theory Suny Series In Philosophy:

Art and Its Significance Stephen David Ross, 1984-06-30 The philosophy of art including the theory of interpretation has been among the most generative branches of philosophy in the latter half of the twentieth century Remarkable interesting and important work has emerged on both sides of the Atlantic from all the major sources of philosophic thought For the first time Stephen David Ross brings together the best of recent writing with the major historical texts and the most influential works of the past century to provide valuable insight into the nature of art and how we are to understand it The selections in this collection comprise a remarkably wide array of positions on the nature and importance of art in human experience A wealth of material is divided into four parts Part I from the history of philosophy includes selections by the essential writers Plato Aristotle Kant Hegel Nietzsche In Part II there are significant selections from Dewey Langer Goodman Heidegger and Merleau Ponty The major selections in Part III are from Hirsch and Gadamer on the nature of interpretation supplemented by selections from Pepper Derrida and Foucault Selections in Part IV sharpen the issues that emerge from the more theoretical discussions in the preceding sections Part IV includes important psychological theories seminal proclamations by twentieth century artists and selections from Bullough on aesthetic distance as well as from Marcuse who develops an important variation on the Marxist view of art

The Poetics of Aristotle and the Tractatus Coislinianus O.J. Schrier, 2018-07-17 The bibliography of Aristotle's Poetics by Cooper and Gudeman most welcome in 1928 has now become antiquated even for the period it covers The present one registers all editions translations commentaries and studies bearing on the Poetics or the major concepts that have been associated with it correctly or incorrectly from 1481 up till 1996 Moreover a survey is given of the medieval translations and commentaries written in the Orient and in Europe Special attention has been given to the reviews The oldest one registered dates from 1697 The second book of the Poetics being lost publications related to the Tractatus Coislinianus which partly rests on Poetics II have been included There are seven indices Especially those on passages and subjects should prove to be useful instruments In the author's text Greek nouns and adjectives have been transliterated

Metaphysical Aporia and Philosophical Heresy Stephen David Ross, 1989-01-01 From Descartes to the present there has been a call for a new beginning in philosophy Contemporary continental philosophy and American pragmatism continue to proclaim the end of one philosophic tradition and the beginning of another The basis for many of these developments is the repudiation of metaphysics The purpose of this book is to rethink the metaphysical traditions in terms of the continental and pragmatist critiques rejecting a single view The major works in the tradition are viewed as heretical Philosophy has recurrently acknowledged aporia moments in the movement of thought in which it finds itself faced with unconquerable obstacles resulting from conflicts in its understanding of its own intelligibility A chapter is devoted to each of the eight major philosophers and movements in the Western canonical tradition the pre Socratics Plato Aristotle Spinoza Leibniz empiricism Kant and Hegel The last three chapters are devoted to contemporary discussions of the end of metaphysics including the development of a local metaphysics that is able to express its own locality and aporia Art and Its Significance Stephen David Ross,1984-01-01 The philosophy of art including the theory of interpretation has been among the most generative branches of philosophy in the latter half of the twentieth century Remarkable interesting and important work has emerged on both sides of the Atlantic from all the major sources of philosophic thought For the first time Stephen David Ross brings together the best of recent writing with the major historical texts and the most influential works of the past century to provide valuable insight into the nature of art and how we are to understand it The selections in this collection comprise a remarkably wide array of positions on the nature and importance of art in human experience A wealth of material is divided into four parts Part I from the history of philosophy includes selections by the essential writers Plato Aristotle Kant Hegel Nietzsche In Part II there are significant selections from Dewey Langer Goodman Heidegger and Merleau Ponty The major selections in Part III are from Hirsch and Gadamer on the nature of interpretation supplemented by selections from Pepper Derrida and Foucault Selections in Part IV sharpen the issues that emerge from the more theoretical discussions in the preceeding sections Part IV includes important psychological theories seminal proclamations by twentieth century artists and selections from Bullough on aesthetic distance as well as from Marcuse who develops an important variation on the Marxist view of art The Ring of Representation Stephen David Ross,1992-01-01 This book asks how we may undertake to represent representation The Gift of Kinds Stephen David Ross,1999-09-16 Explores the idea of human and natural kinds pursuing an ethics of the earth responsive to social political and environmental issues Books for College Libraries: Humanities Association of College and Research Libraries,1988 Books in Series ,1985 Vols for 1980 issued in three parts Series Authors and Titles Whitaker's Books in Print ,1998 Final Fantasy and Philosophy Jason P. task of immersing themselves in their creative work is both a joy and a profound challenge Instead of stepping easily into the creative state they succumb to chronic procrastination and torturous distraction In Standing at Water's Edge psychologist Anne Paris calls on her extensive experience in working with creative clients to explore the deep psychological fears that block us from creative immersion Employing cutting edge theory and research Paris weaves a new understanding of the artist during the creative process Rather than presenting the creation of art as a lonely solitary endeavor she shows how relationships with others are actually crucial to creativity Shining a light on the innermost experience of the artist as he or she engages with others the artwork and the audience Paris explores how our sense of connection with others can aid or inhibit creative immersion She reveals a unique model of mirrors heroes and twins to explore the key relationships that support creativity Paris's groundbreaking psychological approach gives artists valuable new insight into their own creative process allowing them to unlock their potential and finish their greatest projects

A Theory of Art Stephen David Ross, 1982-06-30 The richness of art is manifested in contrast contrast with other works of art other features of human experience other times and places and other forms of judgment and understanding The possibilities of contrast are inexhaustible Every being shares this inexhaustibility of openness to novel possibilities although inexhaustibility is most fully realized in art The general theory of art and aesthetic value developed in this book is based on the notions of inexhaustibility and contrast and has important forebears in Kant Coleridge and Whitehead The theory allows art to be located relative to other spheres of judgment science action and philosophy The theory allows a new perspective on interpretation and criticism Ross presents and defines a new synthetic form of understanding works of art that offers an alternative to the skepticism that haunts so many theories of interpretation
