Anthropology And The Global Factory:

Anthropology and the Global Factory Frances Rothstein, Michael L. Blim, 1992 The world is fast becoming a global factory in which workers entrepreneurs and multinational corporations find themselves producing for the world capitalist market This collection of original essays explores in concrete anthropological detail the ways that people throughout the world have been drawn into this new international labor web Broad in scope and far reaching in their analyses the chapters in this book offer numerous examples of this new world order The case studies focus on industrialization in small scale workshops and informal work at home situations as well as multinational corporations Undertaken in every continent in core as well as peripheral regions the studies cover the perspectives of the workers the entrepreneurs and the corporations In this systematic view of the capitalization of the world economy the contributors demonstrate how new economic linkages are being formed between world markets and small scale entrepreneurs and home based local producers and how late developing regions attempt to gain economic sovereignty through the marketing of local product specialties At the same time the contributors investigations provide concrete evidence of local efforts to create culturally distinct and socially equitable lives showing how the spread of the world capitalist economy changes the everyday lives of people They point to ways in which people use their local traditions of kinship culture and community to resist and shape economic change to more satisfying local ends

The Global Factory Peter J. Buckley, 2018-02-23 This key new book synthesises Peter Buckley's work on the global factory the modern networked multinational enterprise The role of interfirm networks entrepreneurship and cooperation in the creation and management of global factories leads to a discussion of their governance internal knowledge transfer strategies and performance including their role in potentially combating societal failures Emerging country multinationals are examined as a special case of global factories with a focus on Indian and Chinese multinationals their involvement in tax havens and offshore financial centres the performance and processes of their acquisition strategies all seen as key aspects of globalisation
