Data Journeys in the Sciences Sabina Leonelli,Niccolò Tempini,2020-06-29 This groundbreaking open access volume analyses and compares data practices across several fields through the analysis of specific cases of data journeys It brings together leading scholars in the philosophy history and social studies of science to achieve two goals tracking the travel of data across different spaces times and domains of research practice and documenting how such journeys affect the use of data as evidence and the knowledge being produced The volume captures the opportunities challenges and concerns involved in making data move from the sites in which they are originally produced to sites where they can be integrated with other data analysed and re used for a variety of purposes The in depth study of data journeys provides the necessary ground to examine disciplinary geographical and historical differences and similarities in data management processing and interpretation thus identifying the key conditions of possibility for the widespread data sharing associated with Big and Open Data The chapters are ordered in sections that broadly correspond to different stages of the journeys of data from their generation to the legitimisation of their use for specific purposes Additionally the preface to the volume provides a variety of alternative roadmaps aimed to serve the different interests and entry points of readers and the introduction provides a substantive overview of what data journeys can teach about the methods and epistemology of research Consuming History Jerome de Groot,2009-01-13 Non academic history public history is a complex dynamic entity which impacts on the popular understanding of the past at all levels In Consuming History Jerome de Groot examines how society consumes history and how a reading of this consumption can help us understand popular culture and issues of representation This book analyzes a wide range of cultural entities from computer games to daytime television from blockbuster fictional narratives such as Da Vinci Code to DNA genealogical tools to analyze how history works in contemporary popular culture Jerome de Groot probes how museums have responded to the heritage debate and the way in which new technologies have brought about a shift in access to history from online game playing to internet genealogy He discusses the often conflicted relationship between public and academic history and raises important questions about the theory and practice of history as a discipline Whilst mainly focussing on the UK the book also compares the experiences of the USA France and Germany Consuming History is an important and engaging analysis of the social consumption of history and offers an essential path through the debates for readers interested in history cultural studies and the media

Inside the Lost Museum Steven D. Lubar, 2017-08-07 Museum lovers know that energy and mystery run through every exhibition Steven Lubar explains work behind the scenes collecting preserving displaying and using art and artifacts in teaching research and community building through historical and contemporary examples especially the lost but reimagined Jenks Museum at Brown University

Cult Collectors Lincoln Geraghty, 2014-02-24 Cult Collectors examines cultures of consumption and the fans who collect cult film and TV merchandise Author Lincoln Geraghty argues that there has been a change in the fan convention space where collectible merchandise and toys rather than just the fictional text have become objects for trade nostalgia and a focal point for fans personal narratives New technologies also add to this changing identity of cult fandom whereby popular websites such as eBay and ThinkGeek become cyber sites of memory and profit for cult fan communities The book opens with an analysis of the problematic representations of fans and fandom in film and television Stereotypes of the fan and collector as portrayed in series such as The Big Bang Theory and films like The 40 Year Old Virgin are discussed alongside changes in consumption practices and the mainstreaming of cult media Following this theoretical chapters consider issues of gender representation nostalgia and the influence of social media Finally extended case study chapters examine in detail the connections between the fan community and the commodities bought and sold Topics discussed include The San Diego Comic Con and the cult geographies of the fan convention Hollywood memorabilia and collecting cinema history The Star Wars franchise merchandising and the adult collector Online stores and the commercialisation of cult fandom Mattel Hasbro and nostalgia for animated eighties children s television

Ethnography for the Internet Christine Hine, 2015-01-29 The internet has become embedded into our daily lives no longer an esoteric phenomenon but instead an unremarkable way of carrying out our interactions with one another Online and offline are interwoven in everyday experience Using the internet has become accepted as a way of being present in the world rather than a means of accessing some discrete virtual domain Ethnographers of these contemporary Internet infused societies consequently find themselves facing serious methodological dilemmas where should they go what should they do there and how can they acquire robust knowledge about what people do in through and with the internet This book presents an overview of the challenges faced by ethnographers who wish to understand activities that involve the internet Suitable for both new and experienced ethnographers it explores both methodological principles and practical strategies for coming to terms with the definition of field sites the connections between online and offline and the changing nature of embodied experience Examples are drawn from a wide range of settings including ethnographies of scientific institutions television social media and locally based gift giving networks
