Vanishing Borders of Urban Local Finance Shyam Nath, Yeti Nisha Madhoo, 2022-10-18 This book examines the emerging trends in vanishing borders of urban local government finance due to uncertain local tax and expenditure regimes It analyzes the global developments with illustrations from state budgetary operations of the Indian federation This trend has gained momentum due to concentration of population in cities and big towns as a consequence of globalization leading to enhanced environmental vulnerability due to climate change Expanding expenditure needs have not been corresponded by revenue regimes and transfers Moreover involving corporate sector in local area preference initiatives through mandatory corporate social responsibility CSR is an interesting development. It is expected to work as a local fiscal additionality to supplement locally provided civic and infrastructure services. This additionality may also evolve into public private partnerships at the local level. Such development however has the potential of displacing local government operations. The focus of the book hinges around critically examining setbacks to fiscal decentralization and challenges in improving the status of urban local finances to enhance fiscal autonomy of these governments particularly in Indian scenario. The book also explores the possibility of an expanded role of local fiscal policy in the context of globalization and climate change besides addressing the conventional responsibilities with respect to quality of civic services.

Toffolo, 2012-02-01 Combining detailed case studies with discussions of deeper theoretical controversies Emancipating Cultural Pluralism investigates both the benign and harmful aspects of identity politics. Differentiating Development Soumhya Venkatesan, Thomas Yarrow, 2012 Over the last two decades anthropological studies have highlighted the problems of development as a discursive regime arguing that such initiatives are paradoxically used to consolidate inequality and perpetuate poverty. This volume constitutes a timely intervention in anthropological debates about development moving beyond the critical stance to focus on development as a mode of engagement that like anthropology attempts to understand represent and work within a complex world. By setting out to elucidate both the similarities and differences between these epistemological endeavors the book demonstrates how the ethnographic study of development challenges anthropology to rethink its own assumptions and methods. In particular contributors focus on the important but often overlooked relationship between acting and understanding in ways that speak to debates about the role of anthropologists and academics in the wider world. The case studies presented are from a diverse range of geographical and ethnographic contexts from Melanesia to Africa and Latin America and ethnographic research is combined with commentary and reflection from the foremost scholars in the field.
