Experimental Cinema Wheeler W. Dixon, Gwendolyn Audrey Foster, 2002 Brings together key writings on American avant garde cinema to explore the long tradition of underground filmmaking from its origins in the 1920s to the work of contemporary film and video artists Exile and Social Thought Lee Congdon, 2014-07-14 Embroiled in the political events surrounding World War I and the failed Hungarian revolutions of 1918 19 a number of intellectuals fled Hungary for Germany and Austria where they essentially created Weimar culture Among them were Georg Lukács whose History and Class Consciousness recast Marxism and challenged even those who repudiated its politics Bela Balázs who pioneered film theory and collaborated with film makers G W Pabst Leni Riefenstahl and Alexander Korda László Moholy Nagy who codirected the Bauhaus during its heyday in the mid 1920s and Karl Mannheim whose Ideology and Utopia was the most widely discussed work of noncommunist social theory during the Weimar years In this collective portrait combining intellectual history with biographical detail Lee Congdon describes how Hungarian thinkers each in a different way passionately advocated the need for community in a Europe torn by war and revolution Whether communist avant gardist or Catholic convert each thinker is examined within the vast tapestry of his works his cultural and intellectual milieu and his experience as an exile Despite the ideological differences of these men Congdon reveals how their personal destinies and social goals often merged Since many were assimilated Jews he argues that their thinking on society was inextricably intertwined with their youthful sensitivity to anti-Semitism in Hungary and with the isolating limitations of their lives in Germany and Austria Originally published in 1991 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make

Technology and the Making of Experimental Film Culture John Powers, 2023. The Bolex camera, 16mm reversal film, stocks, commercial film laboratories, and low budget optical printers were the small gauge media technologies that provided the infrastructure for experimental filmmaking at the height of its cultural impact. Technology and the Making of Experimental Film Culture examines how the avant garde embraced these material resources and invested them with meanings and values adjacent to those of semiprofessional film culture. By reasserting the physicality of the body in making time lapse and kinesthetic sequences with the Bolex, filmmakers conversed with other art forms and integrated broader spheres of humanistic and scientific inquiry into their artistic process. Drawing from the photographic qualities of stocks such as Tri X and Kodachrome, they discovered pliant metaphors that allowed them to connect their artistic practice to metaphysics, spiritualism, and Hollywood excess. By framing film labs as mystical or adversarial, they cultivated an oppositionality that valorized control over the artistic process. And by using the optical printer as a tool for excavating latent meaning out of found footage, they posited the reworking of images as fundamental to the exploration of personal and cultural identity. Providing a wealth of new detail about the making of canonized avant garde classics by such luminaries as Carolee Schneemann, Jack Smith, and Stan Brakhage, as well as rediscovering works from overlooked artists such as Chick Strand, Amy Halpern, and Gunvor Nelson, Technology and the Making of Experimental Film Culture uses technology as a lens for examining the process of making, where ideas come from, how they are put into practice, and how arguments about those ideas foster cultural and artistic commitments and communities.
