Words, Words, Words George Bowering, 2012-10-25 Words Words Words is a wide ranging collection of literary essays that astonish the reader with their candor insight and generosity Many of them reveal the absurdity that so often underlies our most passionate thoughts our most cherished moments even our most disturbing fears and recognitions They echo everywhere with a kind of cosmic laughter that never lets us forget we are constructs of our own capacity to see through language that at a most fundamental level what we think about our selves is inevitably an extension of what we learn in our reading of others Here we also get to find out what Bowering most cherishes about writers and writing who Al Purdy was what David McFadden's work pays attention to when the world of poetry changed where Artie Gold appeared as a light fixture in our darkness how bpNichol's Martyrology legitimized the vernacular why we cannot read history without encountering Shakespeare Neither precious nor shy their subjects range from the sublime to the ridiculous from the inarticulate nature of grief to a modest proposal for the uses of the dead Together they constitute a history of the education of Canada's first Poet Laureate from his adolescent dreams of becoming a writer his early recognition of the discipline required to forge a life in language the ongoing feud between the TISH authors and the self-appointed nationalist police Bowering shares with us what he has learned in a lifetime of exercising his craft even including what constitutes bad writing Whether in deconstructing the clichés of genre fiction the ghetto of identity politics the hapless failure of any attempt to harness language to utilitarian purposes the abuse of language required to write sensitive prose and verse he constantly reminds us that the first and most important rule of life is pay attention

Efficient Anonymous Authentication and Key Management Techniques for Vehicular Ad-hoc Networks Azees Maria, 2017-11-01 The Vehicular ad hoc network VANET is an important communication paradigm in modern day transport systems for exchanging live messages regarding traffic congestion weather conditions road conditions and targeted location based advertisements to improve the driving comfort In such environments authentication and privacy are two important challenges that need to be addressed There are many existing works to provide authentication and privacy in VANETs However most of the existing authentication schemes are suffering from high computational cost during authentication and high communication cost during secure key distribution to a group of vehicles Moreover in many existing schemes there is no conditional tracking mechanism available to revoke the misbehaving vehicles from the VANET system In order to overcome these issues four new approaches have been developed in this research work Firstly a dual authentication scheme is developed to provide a high level of security on the vehicle side to effectively prevent the unauthorized vehicles entering into the VANET Moreover a dual group key management scheme is developed to efficiently distribute a group key to a group of users and to update such group keys during the users join and leave operations Secondly in order to preserve the privacy of vehicle users a computationally efficient privacy preserving anonymous authentication scheme CPAV is developed to anonymously authenticate the vehicle users based on the use of anonymous certificates and signatures Moreover a conditional tracking mechanism is introduced to trace the real identity of vehicles and revoke them from VANET in the case of dispute Thirdly an efficient anonymous authentication scheme to preserve the privacy of RSUs is proposed in this research work Each authenticated vehicle is required to authenticate the RSUs in an anonymous manner before communicating with it because each RSU provides the location based safety information LBSI to all authenticated vehicles when they are entering its region By doing this each RSU provides the knowledge to vehicle users about the obstacles within its coverage area Finally a computationally efficient group key
