Another Colette:

Another Colette Lynne Huffer, 1992 The contradictions that arise from that construction Another Colette offers a revisionary reading of Colette in light of poststructuralist and feminist criticism particularly that of Derrida Lacan and Kristeva and makes a significant contribution to current questions regarding the relationship of gender sexuality and language In moving beyond the traditional gesture of reading the work of a woman writer as no more than her own experience the study argues for a Colette's Republic Patricia A. Tilburg, 2009 In France's Third Republic secularism was for its adherents a new faith a civic religion founded on a rabid belief in progress and the Enlightenment conviction that men and women could remake their world And yet with all of its pragmatic smoothing over of the supernatural edges of Catholicism the Third Republic engendered its own fantastical ways of seeing by embracing observation corporeal dynamism and imaginative introspection How these republican ideals and the new national education system of the 1870s and 80s the structure meant to impart these ideals shaped belle poque popular culture is the focus of this book The author reassesses the meaning of secularization and offers a cultural history of this period by way of an interrogation of several fraught episodes which although seemingly disconnected shared an attachment to the potent moral and aesthetic directives of French republicanism a village's battle to secularize its schools a scandalous novel a vaudeville hit featuring a nude celebrity and a craze for female boxing Beginning with the writer and performer Colette 1873 1954 as a point of entry this re evaluation of belle poque popular culture probes the startling connections between republican values of labor and physical health on the one hand and the cultural innovations of the decades preceding World War I on the other Colette and the Conquest of Self Laurel Cummins, 2005 The Intersecting Realities and Fictions of Virginia Woolf and Colette Helen Southworth, 2004 What might the author of Mrs Dalloway and A Room of One's Own have in common with the author of the Claudine series and The Pure and the Impure Resisting long held interpretations that Colette and Virginia Woolf had little in common Southworth shows here the links between the two famous writers both real and imagined Often cast in their diametrically opposed roles of elitist bluestocking and risqué music hall performer critics have overlooked the many ways in which the lives and works of Woolf and Colette intersect This study provides a broad ranging introduction to the biographical stylistic and thematic ties that link the lives and works of Britain's and France's first ladies of letters of the early twentieth century Situating the two writers within an international network of artists and literati including Jacques Emile Blanche Radclyffe Hall and Una Troubridge Winnie de Polignac Gisele Freund Sylvia Beach and Adrienne Monnier Vita Sackville West and Violet Trefusis this study complicates conceptions of the differences national sexual cultural and intellectual which have kept these two women apart by placing these same differences at its center Southworth develops work already undertaken on Woolf's contacts with France and adds to the body of comparative work on Woolf and her contemporaries This study also highlights as yet unexplored connections between Colette and her British and American peers Southworth's book makes a significant contribution to gay and lesbian studies and the study of modernist culture It also demonstrates the potential of social network theory for literary studies

Maternal Pasts, Feminist Futures Lynne Huffer, 1998 This book examines the relations among nostalgia gender and foundational philosophies through a critique of the lost mother as a ground for thinking about sexual difference More specifically the author critiques the nostalgic tendencies of feminist theory arguing that an emancipatory system of thought must move beyond a maternally oriented structure Through close readings of works by Maurice Blanchot Luce Irigaray Julia Kristeva and Nicole Brossard the book elucidates the many dimensions of nostalgic paradigms literary psychoanalytic epistemological ontological and sociopolitical This critique ultimately confronts postmodernism and especially the burgeoning field of performative theory as an intellectual paradigm that claims to subvert systems of meaning Analyzing the writings of J L Austin Judith Butler and Irigaray the author argues that despite its antinostalgic structure performative theory provides an inadequate model for understanding the connections among language identity and the social bonds that constitute the ethical and political sphere Asserting through the example of performative theory that a critique is not enough the book examines the possibility of a constructive model that is both non nostalgic and informed by ethical constraints One such model is offered through a reading of the Quebecois writer Nicole Brossard which explores her work in relation to the question of lesbian writing Demystifying nostalgia Brossard not only uncovers and subverts the structures through which a concept of origins is produced but also provides a different visionary way of thinking about the relationship between subjectivity and language Finally the book argues for further feminist work on the relationship between narrative and ethics a field whose future lies in the elaboration of a bridge between the moral commitments of ethical theory and the fractured realities that find their expression in literary forms
