Kelly, 2023-11-14 Why would an inkstone have a poem inscribed on it Early modern Chinese writers did not limit themselves to working with brushes and ink and their texts were not confined to woodblock printed books or the boundaries of the paper page Poets carved lines of verse onto cups ladles animal horns seashells walking sticks boxes fans daggers teapots and musical instruments Calligraphers left messages on the implements ordinarily used for writing on paper These inscriptions terse compositions in verse or epigrammatic prose relate in complex ways to the objects on which they are written Thomas Kelly develops a new account of the relationship between Chinese literature and material culture by examining inscribed objects from the late Ming and early to mid Qing dynasties He considers how the literary qualities of inscriptions interact with the visual and physical properties of the things that bear them Kelly argues that inscribing an object became a means for authors to grapple with the materiality and technologies of writing Facing profound social upheavals from volatility in the marketplace to the violence of dynastic transition writers turned to inscriptions to reflect on their investments in and dependence on the permanence of the written word Shedding new light on cultures of writing in early modern China The Inscription of Things broadens understandings of the links between the literary and the material Ink , 2017-03-10

Mengfu as a Yuan scholar official The concern here is for his development in the context of Mongol rule as a Chinese scholar artist This book will be a must for scholars curators and other specialists in Chinese painting and calligraphy especially those focusing on Yuan dynasty and literati painting Shane McCausland is a lecturer in the history of Chinese art in the Department of Art and Archaeology at SOAS University of London ￼￼￼￼￼￼￼, 2004 Harmonious Hearts 2014 - Stories from the Young Author Challenge Laura Beird, L.A. Crossing Space Angel Favazza, 2019-04-10 Crossing Space is an arresting collection of science fiction poetry by best-selling author Angel Favazza Here is a poet who is fully engaged in the world and with language and who makes no concessions to political correctness or the industry of consolation Instead Favazza fearlessly explores outer space and the human condition through her own emotions zestfully exposing the thoughts we usually hide from others and even ourselves Favazza pushes the boundaries of traditional science fiction and can't keep herself from going right to those dark edges whether she is writing about the entanglements of human life the challenges of our place within the universe or as she so deftly does in several poems both at once The result is a poetry collection that is unforgiving moving and often very funny
