Publications of the Modern Language Association of America ,2006 The Part and the Whole in Early American Literature, Print Culture, and Art Matthew Pethers, Daniel Diez Couch, 2024-04-12 The essays in this pathbreaking collection consider the significance of varied early American fragmentary genres and practices from diaries and poetry to almanacs and commonplace books to sermons and lists to Indigenous ruins and other material shards and fragments often overlooked by critics in a scholarly privileging of the whole Contributors from literary studies book history and visual culture discuss a host of canonical and non canonical figures from Edward Taylor and Washington Irving to Mary Rowlandson and Sarah Kemble Knight offering insight into the many intellectual ideological and material variations of form that populated the early American cultural landscape As these essays reveal the casting of the fragmentary as aesthetically eccentric or incomplete was a way of reckoning with concerns about the related fragmentation of nation society and self For a contemporary audience they offer new ways to think about the inevitable gaps and absences in our cultural and historical archive The Making of T.S. Eliot Joseph Maddrey, 2009-05-13 This chronological survey of major influences on T S Eliot s worldview covers the poet s spiritual and intellectual evolution in stages by trying to see the world as Eliot did It examines his childhood influences as well as the literary influences that inspired him to write his earliest poetry his life as an American expatriate living in London from 1915 to 1930 including his ill fated marriage and his intellectual engagement with the literary traditions of his new country and the ways in which his intellectual pursuits fostered a spiritual rebirth that simultaneously reflected his past and revealed his future demonstrating how the early Romantic revolutionary became a staunch defender of tradition Digital Literary Redlining Amy E. Earhart, 2025-06-24 Though canon concerns seem to be a relic of 1990s academia we are once again at a historical moment when there is resistance to teaching texts by writers of color and texts that deal with race ethnicity and gender At the same time algorithmic bias scholars are locating systemic bias encoded into systems from policing software to housing software Bringing these divergent areas together Amy E Earhart examines how technological and institutional infrastructures construct and deconstruct race ethnicity and gender identities Focusing on two central infrastructures the database a commonly used technological infrastructure in the digital humanities and the anthology a scholarly and pedagogical infrastructure Earhart considers how such seemingly naturalized infrastructures impact the representation and modeling of identity The book draws upon the building and use of DALA a collection of almost 100 years of generalist American and African American literature anthologies constructed to investigate questions of identity and representation in literary anthologies and by extension the larger literary canon The resulting examination and its rigorous discussion of how identities are created and recreated within Black literary histories has important implications for contemporary cultural and political debates about canon formation literary scholarship and the bias embedded in technological infrastructures *Sterling A.
