Academic Anthropology and the Museum Mary Bouquet, 2001 The museum boom with its accompanying objectification and politicization of culture finds its counterpart in the growing interest by social scientists in material culture much of which is to be found in museums Not surprisingly anthropologists in particular are turning their attention again to museums after decades of neglect during which fieldwork became the hallmark of modern anthropology so much so that the social and the material parted company so radically as to produce a kind of knowledge gap between historical collections and the intellectuals who might have benefitted from working on these material representations of culture Moreover it was forgotten that museums do not only present the pastness of things A great deal of what goes on in contemporary museums is literally about planning the shape of the future making culture materialize involves mixing things from the past taking into account current visions and knowing that the scenes constructed will shape the perspectives of future generations However the re invention of museum anthropology presents a series of challenges for academic teaching and research as well as for the work of cultural production in contemporary museums issues that are explored in this volume

Racial Segregation and Eugenical Science Between the Wars Michael L. Blakey, 2025-07-18 This volume examines the rise and decline of racial science and its relationship to the political and social imposition of Jim Crow in the American South a racialized code of laws grounded upon an inherently racist and prejudicial pseudoscience The author argues here that the study of human beings within the emerging 18th and 19th century institutions of Western science was corrupted by the limited social intuitions of its enslaving colonizing and elitist members Western science and White societies plowed forward in continued ideological adherence to a biodeterministic imagination to justify slavery then Jim Crow racial segregation immigration restriction and other deadly and exploitative eugenical solutions of Social Darwinist thought The story is further complexified by the countervailing theories and voices of Black and Jewish intellectuals in the social and biocultural sciences in the 19th and 20th centuries such as Frederick Douglass W E B Du Bois and Montague Cobb These had profound consequences not only for the social sciences but also for the cultural life of Black Americans in the aftermath and afterlife of slavery At the same time even here the author discloses that the racialized dimensions of social science could not be fully exorcised as social science continued to construct soft line racism in that it selectively primitivized darker people and omitted White racism and colonialism from their human story African American social scientists and historians brought White racism and Black modernity to the fore Eugenics had begun to paint marginal White people Jewish and Italian immigrants to the United States as natural inferiors to Nordics or Aryans with devastating consequences in World War II Europe As the War ended the world community began its turn against racism in science and society In constructing this historical and sociological counternarrative the author provides a critical new social history that illuminates a tangled and turgid past for contemporary

Clinically Applied Anthropology N. Chrisman,T. Maretzki,2012-12-06 like other collections of papers related to a single topic this volume arose out of problem sharing and problem solving discussions among some of the authors The two principal recurring issues were 1 the difficulties in translating anthropo logical knowledge so that our students could use it and 2 the difficulties of bringing existing medical anthropology literature to bear on this task As we talked to other anthropologists teaching in other parts of the country and in various health related schools we recognized that our problems were similar Similarities in our solutions led the Editors to believe that publication of our teaching experi ences and research relevant to teaching would help others and might begin the process of generating principles leading to a more coherent approach Our colleagues supported this idea and agreed to contribute What we agreed to write about was Clinically Applied Anthropology Much of what we were doing and certainly much of the relevant literature was applied anthropology And our target group was composed mostly of clinicians The utility of the term became apparent after 1979 when another set of anthropologists began to discuss ainical Anthropology They too recognized the range of novel be haviors available to anthropologists in the health science arena and chose to focus on the clinical use of anthropology We see this as an important endeavor but very different from what we are proposing The Anthropological Review Anthropological Society of London,1868
