Anthropology John William Bennett, Classic Anthropology is Bennett's label for the work produced by anthropologists during the period 1915-1955 which many believe represents the most productive era in the discipline's history. It is also one that can never be repeated given the fact that most of anthropology's basic data—the ideas and customs of tribal peoples—have been extinguished or greatly transformed by modernization and nationalization. The book is composed of some fifteen essays. Among the issues examined are the emergence of a functionalist viewpoint in ethnology; the difficulties of developing a theory of human behavior because of the focus on culture; the search for concepts of culture to serve specialized needs; the neglect of social psychology by the culture and personality field; how value judgments emerged willy nilly or conversely were neglected in ethnological research; how applied anthropology was challenged by Action Anthropology; and how the interdisciplinary anthropology of the late 1940s was submerged in the postwar effort to return the discipline to traditional roots. Individual anthropologists whose work is examined include, among others, Bronislaw Malinowski, Leslie Spier, Alfred Kroeber, Ralph Linton, Margaret Mead, Ruth Benedict, Clyde Kluckhohn, Gregory Bateson, and Walter Taylor.      Forest

Tribology And Anthropology Vinod M. Mhaiske, Vinayak K. Patil, S.S. Narkhede, 2016-01-01. This book is designed to present introductory information on tribes, especially on characteristics, family distribution, dialect, demography, economy, kinship, marriage, dormitory, religion, culture, magic, role in forest development, symbiotic relationship, anthropological aspects of tribe, and the tribal development through various plans, schemes, and programmes. Presently, there is no text book available that comprehensively covers the syllabus prescribed for Forest Tribology and Anthropology course in the Forestry degree programme. Authors have attempted to fill this gap by collecting and compiling all the necessary information on tribals of India at one place in the form of a textbook. The entire material is presented in simple language for easy understanding and supported with latest data and research findings. This book is expected to serve as an excellent text book for undergraduates and postgraduates in forestry colleges and related disciplines. It will serve as a reference book for students, teachers, foresters, policy makers, anthropologists, research workers, aspirants of competitive exams, and general readers as well.

Applying Anthropology in the Global Village Christina Wasson, Mary Odell Butler, Jacqueline Copeland-Carson, 2016-06-16. The realities of the globalized world have revolutionized traditional concepts of culture, community, and identity, so how do applied social scientists use complicated, fluid new ideas such as translocality and ethnoscape to solve pressing human problems? In this book, leading scholar-practitioners survey the development of different subfields over at least two decades, then offer concrete case studies to show how they have incorporated and refined new concepts and methods. After an introduction synthesizing anthropological practice, key theoretical concepts, and ethnographic methods, chapters examine the arenas of public health, community development, finance, technology, transportation, gender, environment, immigration, aging, and child welfare. An innovative guide to joining dynamic theoretical concepts with on-the-ground problem solving, this book
