Anthropology Of Community Care:

The Anthropology of Welfare Iain Edgar, Andrew Russell, 2002-03-11 The Anthropology of Welfare provides an overview of what anthropology has to offer welfare studies and vice versa Case studies from anthropologists in the field examine different branches of welfare and community care for example Maternity services Children with learning difficulties Children s homes Mothers centres People with HIV Mental health centres Housing Care and provision for the elderly Contributors focus on comparative welfare systems examples are taken from urban and rural areas of the UK USA Sweden Germany Portugal and New Zealand In each case the theoretical and methodological appropriateness of social anthropology for the study of welfare and the insights gained by bringing anthropology and welfare together are examined The Anthropology of Welfare will be essential reading for those studying anthropology social work and social policy and will be of interest to teachers practitioners and researchers in applied social welfare fields

The Social Basis of Community Care (Routledge Revivals) Martin Bulmer, 2015-06-11 Care for the elderly disabled and mentally ill within and by the community forms a vital part of current social policy Martin Bulmer argues that this policy is inadequately thought out and rests on a series of poorly founded sociological assumptions As a result there is a vacuum at the heart of government s social care policy which is likely to lead to ineffective or deteriorating provision for those in need This book first published in 1987 will be essential reading for all those concerned with the organization and delivery of social care whether as students practitioners or teachers It will be particularly useful for courses dealing with social policy the personal social services and the social context of social work

The Lives of Community Health Workers Kenneth Maes, 2016-12 Conclusion Listening to Community Health Workers Recommendations for Action and Research Recruit Strong CHWs and Provide Supportive Supervision Emphasize the Humanity of Patients Quality of Life and Empathic Care Build Solid Relationships across Social Dividing Lines Finance the Creation of Secure CHW Jobs Strengthen CHW Participation in Processes of Social Change Conduct Better Research and More of It United Spider Webs Can Tie Up a Lion References Index

New Qualitative Methodologies in Health and Social Care Research Frances Rapport, 2004-08-02 This edited volume brings together innovative contributions from a range of health and social care professionals and research scientists who are interested in introducing new approaches to qualitative research into the world of health and social care A range of methodologies including discourse analysis imagework cut up technique minimalist passive interviewing technique and social action research are discussed along with their histories methods and their applicability to practice Illustrated by examples drawn from clinical and practice settings the book also explores recent developments and their implications for and impact on delivery and good practice evaluation in health and social care The book encourages an in depth appreciation of the concept of evidence what it means how it is arrived at and the consequences of it being applied and enables health and social care professionals academics and students to learn more about new qualitative methodologies broadens understanding of notions of good practice encourages new thinking about the application of methodologies to practice Anthropology in Public Health Robert A. Hahn, Kate W. Harris, 1999 Cultural and social boundaries often separate those who participate in public health activities and it is a major challenge to translate public health knowledge and technical capacity into public health action across these boundaries This book provides an overview of anthropology and illustrates in 15 case studies how anthropological concepts and methods can help us understand and resolve diverse public health problems around the world For example one chapter shows how differences in concepts and terminology among patients clinicians and epidemiologists in a southwestern U S county hinder the control of epidemics Another chapter examines reasons that Mexican farmers don't use protective equipment when spraying pesticides and suggests ways to increase use Another examines the culture of international health agencies demonstrates institutional values and practices that impede effective public health practice and suggests issues that must be addressed to enhance institutional organization and process Each chapter characterizes a public health problem describes methods used to analyse it reviews results and discusses implications several chapters also describe and evaluate programs designed to address the problem on the basis of anthropological knowledge The book provides practical models and indicates anthropological tools to translate public health knowledge and technical capacity into public health action The Anthropology of Organizations

Susan Wright, 2004-03 This book presents and analyses the latest anthropological work on the development and management of organizations examining practical problems which anthropology can help to solve Clinically Applied Anthropology N. Chrisman, T. Maretzki, 2012-12-06 like other collections of papers related to a single topic this volume arose out of problem sharing and problem solving discussions among some of the authors The two principal recurring issues were 1 the difficulties in translating anthropological knowledge so that our students could use it and 2 the difficulties of bringing existing medical anthropology literature to bear on this task As we talked to other anthropologists teaching in other parts of the country and in various health related schools we recognized that our problems were similar Similarities in our solutions led the Editors to believe that publication of our teaching experiences and research relevant to teaching would help others and might begin the process of generating principles leading to a more coherent approach Our colleagues supported this idea and agreed to contribute What we agreed to write about was Clinically Applied Anthropology Much of what we were doing and certainly much of the relevant literature was applied anthropology And our target group was composed mostly of clinicians The utility of the term became apparent after 1979 when another set of anthropologists began to discuss clinical Anthropology They too recognized the range of novel behaviors available to anthropologists in the health science arena and chose to focus on the clinical use of anthropology We see this as an important endeavor but very different from what we are proposing

Community Health Workers: Describing the Breadth of Interventions and Contexts Across the World Mathieu Nacher, Nicolas Vignier, 2025-05-15 Social inequalities in health remain a challenging problem throughout the world Despite a variety of specific contexts vulnerable populations often present to care later with more advanced health problems and often greater fatality rates at younger ages To remediate this health services NGOs project personnel to liaise with the communities and serve as an intermediary between health professionals and patients from vulnerable populations The denominations may vary health mediation cultural mediation community health workers Agente de Sa de and sometimes entail different functions Hard evidence on the impact of these mediators is often lacking because of the differences in contexts specific health problems considered and what mediation entails in different countries In this Research Topic we encourage submissions of articles that describe a range of experiences for different contexts where mediation health mediation cultural mediation community health workers Agente de Sa de programmes are deployed for public health issues From this variety of experiences we hope this special issue will constitute a precious repository of experiences and contexts that could be transferable and scalable interventions for others Medical and Health Related Sciences Thesaurus ,1980

Anthropology and Epidemiology C. Janes, R. Stall, S.M. Gifford, 2012-12-06 Over the past two decades increasing interest has emerged in the contributions that the social sciences might make to the epidemiological study of patterns of health and disease Several reasons can be cited for this increasing interest Primary among these has been the rise of the chronic non infectious diseases as important causes of morbidity and mortality within Western populations during the 20th century Generally speaking the chronic non infectious diseases are strongly influenced by lifestyle variables which are themselves strongly influenced by social and cultural forces The understanding of the effects of the behavioral factors in say hypertension thus requires an understanding of the social and cultural factors which encourage obesity a sedentary lifestyle non compliance with anti hypertensive medications or other prescribed regimens and stress Equally there is a growing awareness that considerations of human behavior and its social and cultural determinants are important for understanding the distribution and control of infectious diseases Related to this expansion of epidemiologic interest into the behavioral realm has been the development of etiological models which focus on the psychological biological and socio cultural characteristics of hosts rather than exclusive concern with exposure to a particular agent or even behavioral risk Also during this period advances in statistical and computing techniques have made accessible the ready testing of multivariate causal models and so have encouraged the measurement of the effects of social and cultural factors on disease occurrence

Culture and Health Michael Winkelman, 2008-12-05 Culture and Health offers an overview of different areas of culture and health building on foundations of medical anthropology and health behavior theory It shows how to address the challenges of cross cultural medicine through interdisciplinary cultural ecological models and personal and institutional developmental approaches to cross cultural adaptation and competency The book addresses the perspectives of clinically applied anthropology trans cultural psychiatry and the medical ecology critical medical anthropology and symbolic paradigms as frameworks for enhanced comprehension of health and the medical encounter Includes cultural case studies applied vignettes and self assessments

Applications of Anthropology Sarah Pink, 2006 In a set of case studies anthropologists working with diverse organizations revisit historical debates about applied anthropology define existing issues and explore possible futures Among the themes they develop are the relationship between academic and applied anthropology anthropological identities in new working environments innovative methodologies appropriate to the new contexts and how anthropology is perceived from the outside

The New Public Health Theodore H. Tulchinsky, Elena A. Varavikova, 2009 Linking classical public health and intervention with evolving healthcare strategies and policies for the 21st century The New Public Health provides a broad perspective on current issues the kinds of solutions expectations needed in the future
