Anthropomorphism Anecdotes And Animals:

Anthropomorphism, Anecdotes, and Animals Robert W. Mitchell, Nicholas S. Thompson, H. Lyn Miles, 1997-01-01 People commonly think that animals are psychologically like themselves anthropomorphism and describe what animals do in narratives anecdotes that support these psychological interpretations This is the first book to evaluate the significance and usefulness of the practices of anthropomorphism and anecdotalism for understanding animals Diverse perspectives are presented in thoughtful critical essays by historians philosophers anthropologists psychologists behaviorists biologists primatologists and ethologists The nature of anthropomorphism and anecdotal analysis is examined social cultural and historical attitudes toward them are presented and scientific attitudes are appraised Authors provide fascinating in depth descriptions and analyses of diverse species of animals including octopi great apes monkeys dogs sea lions and of course human beings Concerns about and proposals for evaluations of a variety of psychological aspects of animals are discussed including mental state attribution intentionality cognition consciousness self consciousness and language The Dog Trainers Resource 2 Mychelle Blake, 2008 The Dog Trainer s Resource 2 is made up of the best articles from award winning APDT s Chronicle of the Dog Each article stands alone and contains valuable professional development information for trainers and would be trainers Learn about modern science based motivational dog training from the best in the field Each article is written by an expert and covers an important aspect of working with dogs and people Also covers the business aspects of working with dogs Seven Challenges for the Science of Animal Minds Mike Dacey, 2025-01-28 The scientific study of animal minds is difficult This book examines the most significant reasons this is so seven challenges for the science to overcome Researchers are aware of these challenges but few take any of them head on and none address them collectively Despite this focus on challenges the book s attitude is optimistic rather than critical these are challenges for the science not challenges to the science Researchers have made substantial progress as things are But taking the challenges head on can help build an even stronger more vibrant science The seven challenges are 1 underdetermination of theory by data 2 anthropomorphic bias 3 the difficulty of modeling cognitive processes 4 integrating across disciplines 5 ecological validity 6 small sample sizes and 7 measuring consciousness For each the book suggests rethinking the challenge and reorienting our attempts to address it These approaches are novel general ways of thinking that will help researchers work through the challenges and perhaps find solutions appropriate to their own research Each of the main chapters takes on one challenge Each also includes an empirical case study from social reasoning in chimpanzees to foraging in honeybees to consciousness in octopuses Along the way a big picture framework emerges for drawing conclusions about animal minds based on experimental evidence In this framework the role of any individual piece of the science is limited any individual experiment model claim or argument can only tell us so much When we are appropriately modest about each piece conclusions about animal minds must be arrived at by holistically considering all the evidence we can get This is a work in the philosophy of science but it is written to be accessible to any philosopher interested in empirical issues relating to the mind researchers in any of the related sciences including psychology neuroscience ethology and evolutionary biology as well as intermediate to advanced students      Captive Ambassadors: The Hidden Lives of Zoo Animals Eve

D'Vincent,2025-09-25 Captive Ambassadors challenges the notion of zoo animals as ambassadors for their species revealing the exploitative marketing tactics behind their individualized narratives Drawing on cognitive and behavioral ethology transspecies psychology and critical anthropomorphism this multidisciplinary work exposes how zoos fabricate biographies to mask the harsh reality of animals lived experiences in captivity It critiques the disruptions of animal culture caused by captive breeding programs and the tragic fate of surplus animals deemed no longer useful Advocating for authentic animal biographies and ethical engagement this book argues for a shift in human animal relations that honors animals as unique individuals with intrinsic value transcending the confines of their captive roles      Pretending and Imagination in

Animals and Children Robert W. Mitchell,2002-02-21 It is well known that children s activities are full of pretending and imagination but it is less appreciated that animals can also show similar activities Originally published in 2002 this book focuses on comparing and contrasting children s and animals pretenses and imaginative activities In the text overviews of research present conflicting interpretations of children s understanding of the psychology of pretense and describe sociocultural factors which influence children s pretenses Studies of nonhuman primates provide examples of their pretenses and other simulative activities explore their representational and imaginative capacities and compare their skills with children Although the psychological requirements for pretending are controversial evidence presented in this volume suggests that great apes and even monkeys may share capacities for imagination with children and that children s early pretenses may be less psychological than they appear      Talking Animals in British Children's Fiction, 1786-1914

Tess Cosslett,2017-03-02 In her reappraisal of canonical works such as Black Beauty Beautiful Joe Wind in the Willows and Peter Rabbit Tess Cosslett traces how nineteenth century debates about the human and animal intersected with or left their mark on the venerable genre of the animal story written for children Effortlessly applying a range of critical approaches from Bakhtinian ideas of the carnivalesque to feminist postcolonial and ecocritical theory she raises important questions about the construction of the child reader the qualifications of the implied author and the possibilities of children s literature compared with literature written for adults Perhaps most crucially Cosslett examines how the issues of animal speech and animal subjectivity were managed at a time when the possession of language and consciousness had become a vital sign of the difference between humans and animals Topics of great contemporary concern such as the relation of the human and the natural masculine and feminine child and adult are investigated within their nineteenth century contexts making this an important book for nineteenth century scholars children s literature specialists and historians of science and childhood

Recognising and Responding to Animal Emotion in a Shared World

Vicki Hutton, 2023-11-16

How is it that depending on the setting the same cat can be perceived as a homeless annoyance a potential research subject or a thinking and feeling family member The answer is bound up in our perception of non human animals capacity to experience emotions and this book draws on contemporary evidence based research observations interviews and anecdotal case scenarios to explore the growing knowledge base around animal emotion Acknowledging that animals can experience feelings directly affects the way that they are perceived and treated in many settings and the author explores the implications when humans apply or ignore this knowledge selectively between species and within species This information is presented within the unique context of a proposed hierarchy of perceived non human animals emotional abilities often based on human interpretation of the animal's emotional capacity with examples of how this manifests at an emotional spiritual and moral level Implications for specific groups living with caring for or working with non human animals are examined making the book of particular interest to those working studying or researching in the veterinary professions animal ethics law and welfare and zoology biology and animal science This book will also be fascinating reading for anyone interested in simply learning more about the animals with whom we share this planet For some readers it will validate the reciprocal emotional bond they feel for living creatures For others it will raise questions about the moral treatment of sentient non human beings breaking down the human protective barrier of cognitive dissonance and activating a cycle of change assumptions What visions of childhood were conveyed by explicit attempts to cultivate specific virtues in children What unstated cultural assumptions were expressed by growing resistance to didacticism How should we prepare children to respond to racism in their books and in their society Part II takes up the ethical orientations of various classic and contemporary texts including prosaic ethics in the Hundred Acre Wood moral discernment in Narnia ethical recognition in the distant worlds traversed by L. Engle and virtuous transgression in recent Anglo American children's literature and in the emerging children's literature of 1960s Taiwan Part III's essays engage in ethical criticism of arguably problematic messages about our relationship to nonhuman animals about war and about prejudice The final section considers how we respond to children's literature with ethically focused essays exploring a range of ways in which child readers and adult authorities react to children's literature Even as children's literature has evolved in opposition to its origins in didactic Sunday school tracts and moralizing fables authors parents librarians and scholars remain sensitive to the values conveyed to children through the texts they choose to share with them
