Anti Politics Machine Development Depoliticization And Bureaucratic Power In Lesotho:

The Anti-Politics Machine James Ferguson, 1990-06-14 Attributes Canadian withdrawal from the Thaba Tseka rural development project largely to problems accompanying the expansion of state power etatization Includes an introductory literature survey on development planning and evaluation in general      Anti-Politics Machine James Ferguson, 1994-02-01 Development it is generally assumed is good and necessary and in its name the West has intervened implementing all manner of projects in the impoverished regions of the world When these projects fail as they do with astonishing regularity they nonetheless produce a host of regular and unacknowledged effects including the expansion of bureaucratic state power and the translation of the political realities of poverty and powerlessness into technical problems awaiting solution by development agencies and experts It is the political intelligibility of these effects along with the process that produces them that this book seeks to illuminate through a detailed case study of the workings of the development industry in one country Lesotho and in one development project Using an anthropological approach grounded in the work of Foucault James Ferguson analyzes the institutional framework within which such projects are crafted and the nature of development discourse revealing how it is that despite all the expertise that goes into formulating development projects they nonetheless often demonstrate a startling ignorance of the historical and political realities of the locale they are intended to help In a close examination of the attempted implementation of the Thaba Tseka project in Lesotho Ferguson shows how such a misguided approach plays out how in fact the development apparatus in Lesotho acts as an anti politics machine everywhere whisking political realities out of sight and all the while performing almost unnoticed its own pre eminently political operation of strengthening the state presence in the local region James Ferguson is an associate professor of anthropology at the University of California at Irvine      An Analysis of James Ferguson's The Anti-Politics Machine Julie

Jenkins, 2017-07-05 The Anti Politics Machine 1990 examines how international development projects are conceived researched and put into practice It also looks at what these projects actually achieve Ferguson criticizes the idea of externally directed development and argues that the process doesn't take proper account of the daily realities of the communities it is intended to benefit Instead they often prioritize technical solutions for addressing poverty and ignoring its social and political dimensions so the structures that these projects put in place often have unintended consequences Ferguson suggests that until the process becomes more reflective development projects will continue to fail

Anti-Politics Machine James Ferguson, 1990-12-01      The Anti-Politics Machine Julie Jenkins, 2017-07-05 James Ferguson's 1990 study The Anti Politics Machine was a radical intervention in development studies that remains influential in the field today It is also an excellent example of the way in which creative thinking can help shake up an idea and show problems in a new light Ferguson's interest was development strategies in the Third World the interventions by which aid agencies NGOs and individual countries try to raise poor areas or countries economic and living standards Embedded in the community in Lesotho a small country in southern Africa Ferguson noted that time and time again the same strategies were used by agencies and foreign powers despite the fact that they had failed many times before Seeking to analyse the implications of this discovery Ferguson made a move that is often employed by creative thinkers he stepped outside of the standard interpretative framework and applied a novel way of interpreting the problem In this case Ferguson imported his framework and methodology from the French philosopher and historian Michel Foucault whose theories of power dynamics enabled Ferguson to see the failed development strategies from an entirely new perspective It is a simple but impactful move that helped revolutionise the discussion Page 5

The Anti-politics Machine in India Vasudha Chhotray, 2011 This book assesses the validity of anti politics critiques of development first popularised by James Ferguson in the peculiar context of India It examines the new context provided by decentralization of state functioning where keeping politics out of development development as the anti politics machine can no longer be taken for granted The case of a highly technocratic state watershed development programme that also seeks to be participatory is used to illustrate the tensions between prescriptive development policy and a growing political democracy

Partnerships, Power and Peacebuilding T. Dibley, 2014-09-03 By highlighting the scope and limitations of local NGO agencies this book presents a unique perspective of the relationship between peacebuilding theory and its application in practice outlining how well educated well connected local decision makers and thinkers navigate the uneven power dynamics of the international aid system
