Flying Circus

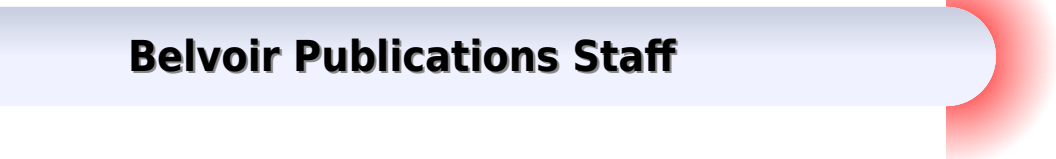

2nd EDITION

Belvoir Publications

The pilot (800 hours) and passenger of a Cessna 210 were injured when the plane was ditched into the Colorado River, Canyonlands National Park. The Cessna had made some low passes intending to drop a container of ice cream to a whitewater rafting party. The Cessna made several flights into the 800 foot deep canyon until their friends raft was located. The plane then made three passes into the steeply walled canyon. On the fourth pass, the ice cream drop was made. Just after the drop, the pilot attempted to add power, but the engine faltered.

Brown, 2022-04-21 While large numbers of aeroplanes had been produced in America for the war effort overseas at the Western Front it was found that the British French and Germans were far ahead of them when it came to flight technology which led to a huge surplus of aeroplanes in the United States The government's solution to recover some of the money was to sell the surplus stock off for as little as 200 dollars each With no licence being required to fly a plane the offer attracted many ex fighter pilots as well as civilians who developed a new American pastime known as barnstorming Part entertainers part thrill seekers the barnstormers made their way across the country as solo acts and in groups called Flying Circuses The American flier Ormer Locklear wowed the crowds by climbing out of his aeroplane and walk along the wing and it wasn't long before flying circuses held less appeal for spectators if it didn't have a wing walking act Handstands jumps across planes and even the odd game of tennis were attempted by barnstormers to attract larger paying audiences In 1936 the US Government banned wing walking under 1 500 ft which doomed aerial stunting and while a few wing walking teams operated in the 1970s it wasn't until barnstormer Vic Norman founded his famous AeroSuperBatics wing walking team in the early 1980s that the sight of daredevils hand standing and flying upside down on the wing was seen in Europe Several teams around the world subsequently formed using aeroplanes such as the Boeing Stearman or the Curtiss Jenny biplanes to wow crowds as a part of regular air displays and their appeal has continued to rise since the 2000s Popular Aviation, 1994 Flying Magazine, 1961-12 Flying Magazine, 1972-06 Inquiry Into Operations of the United States Air Services United States. This dissertation shows how the history of the Waco Aircraft Company reflects the transformation of the American economy in the twentieth century Beginning just after the First World War its entrepreneur Clayton J Brukner developed a network of relationships within the aviation industry This allowed his company to develop significant competitive advantages in the private flying market Those advantages and the popular appeal of aviation helped Waco to become the largest manufacturer of civilian aircraft by 1929 The transformation of business government relations during the New Deal demanded changes in Brukner s business strategy The depression significantly cut sales of its popular biplanes but Waco kept its Troy Ohio factory open and earned some profits during the downturn Brukner s involvement with the trade associations in the 1930s revealed the critical role the government the military in particular played in the development of aviation His flawed leadership in the changing context led to decisions that degraded the quality of its network signals and diminished Waco s effectiveness in crafting appropriate policies As the international situation grew increasingly tense throughout the 1930s Waco like other manufacturers turned to exports to enhance sales Contracts with foreign governments partially offset the setback the depression had caused domestically They did not however drive Brukner to evaluate sufficiently Waco s potential participation in the U S military market Only after the Munich Crisis in September 1938 when President Franklin D Roosevelt decided to call for increased military spending did the Waco Aircraft Company position itself to receive defense contracts It was almost three years however before the Army Air Forces directed the company to design and manufacture transport aircraft and cargo gliders In the meantime Brukner had not developed the organizational capabilities needed to manage military contracts Flying Magazine ,1959-12
