War Letters Of Edmond Genet : The First American Aviator Killed Flying The Stars And Stripes Edmond Charles Clinton Genet,2014-06-13 Edmond Genet from Ossining New York was the first American flier to die in the First World War after the United States declared war against Germany shot down by anti aircraft artillery on April 17 1917 Genet was the great great grandson of Edmond Charles Genet also known as Citizen Genet the French Ambassador to the United States shortly before the French Revolution who is mostly remembered for being the cause of an international incident known as the Citizen Genet Affair Edmond Genet sailed for France at the end of January 1915 to join the French Foreign Legion while still technically on leave from the US Navy He never arranged to be formally relieved of his responsibility to the Navy before joining the Lafayette Escadrille on January 22 1917 This decision weighed heavily on him as time wore on since he could be classified as a deserter because the US was not yet formally in the war and his involvement in the Escadrille was therefore not an official assignment by the US military He was particularly celebrated since it was known that he was the descendant of Citizen Genet As the prospect of American Involvement in the war grew he became both increasingly worried and hopeful that his participation in the Escadrille would not be affected by the American entry into the war and sought the help of prominent Americans in France to help him straighten out his status Ironically he died shortly after the formal entry of the US into the war before the issue of his status could be dealt with Although other Americans had died as part of the Escadrille he was the first one to do so after the US formally declared war on the Central powers This made him the first official American casualty of the war despite the fact that the US had not yet had time to organize or send any actual troops to Europe He was 20 years old at the time of his death Wiki
