The Crosslinguistic Study of Language Acquisition Dan Isaac Slobin, 2014-02-25 Continuing the tradition of this series which has become a standard reference work in language acquisition Volume 4 contains chapters on three additional languages language groups Finnish Greek and Korean The chapters are selective critical reviews rather than exhaustive summaries of the course of development of each language Authors approach the language in question as a case study in a potential crosslinguistic typology of acquisitional problems considering those data which contribute to issues of general theoretical concern in developmental psycholinguistics and linguistic theory Each chapter therefore provides the following

Grammatical Sketch of Language Brief grammatical sketch of the language or language group presenting those linguistic facts which are relevant to the developmental analysis Sources of Evidence Summary of basic sources of evidence characterizing methods of gathering data and listing key references Overall Course of Development Brief summary of the overall course of development in the language or language group giving an idea of the general problems posed to the child in acquiring a language of this type summarizing typical errors domains of relatively error free acquisition and the timing of acquisition areas of the grammar that show relatively precocious or delayed development in crosslinguistic perspective Data Specific developmental aspects of the language examined in depth depending on each individual language and available acquisition data Conclusions An interpretive summary of theoretical points raised above attending to general principles of language development and linguistic organization suggested by the study of a language of this type plus comparisons with development of other languages List No. 7: Foreign Language Area Studies and Other Aspects of International Education United States. Learner-Centred Education for Adult Migrants in Europe, 2021-04-12 Learner Centred Education for Adult Migrants in Europe A Critical Comparative Analysis contributes to the field of Adult Education by investigating the ways in which Learner Centred Education LCE is being enacted implemented or neglected in specific settings The book addresses the lack of research on how LCE is used in adult education as a tool for social change across different national contexts This comparative approach is crucial for exploring the complex global regional national and local dynamics that account for varying implementations or non implementations of LCE in different settings for appreciating the thin or wide differences in practices of implementation and for assessing the successes failures and needs for improvement of diverse LCE programmes The book's primary focus on migration as a social process and migrants as active citizens is useful in unravelling the convergences and divergences of different national and urban settings where migrant adult learners live as citizens or as non citizens and how this intersects with their experiences as learners This research is contextualised in a larger political context What emerges from the parting reflection is a European scenario marked by ambivalent and contradictory relations with migrants and an educational intervention that is located somewhere between the assimilationist integrationist dialectic The four cases presented Estonia Malta Scotland and Cyprus generally respond to the learners needs on the ground while rarely problematising the ideological stance of the state in relation to the educational plight of migrants The final chapter introduces and elaborates on a new concept Emancipatory LCE to help generate a deeper analysis
