Almost Like A Whale The Origin Of Species Updated:

Almost Like a Whale Steve Jones, 2000-09-01 In his new book Steve Jones takes on the challenge of going back to the book of the millennium Charles Darwin's The Origin of Species. Before The Origin biology was a set of unconnected facts. Darwin made it into a science linked by the theory of evolution, the grammar of the living world. It reveals ties between cancer and the genetics of fish, between brewing and inherited disease, between the sex lives of crocodiles and the politics of Brazil. Darwin used the biology of the nineteenth century to prove his case. Now that science has been revolutionized and his case can be reargued using the twentieth century's astonishing advances. From AIDS to dinosaurs, from conservation to cloned sheep, bursting with anecdotes, jokes, and irresistible facts, Almost Like a Whale is a popular account of the science that makes biology make sense. It will catch the millennial mood and tell all those for whom Darwin is merely a familiar name what he really meant. It exposes the Darwinian delusions which try and fail to explain human behaviour in evolutionary terms and while giving an up to date account of our own past shows how humans are the first species to step beyond the constraints of biology.

Enigmatic If Not Ineffable Robert Samuel Thorpe, 2019-05-23 Philosophy lends itself to thinking. Certainly thought should pop into the philosopher's mind frequently and precipitate a mystical investigation of possibilities stimulating the imagination and provoking the cognitive machinery. Not only are there thoughts in this book but they are somewhat scattered among several subjects, a tendency of philosophers. With these words Samuel Thorpe challenges every reader and prospective scholar to exercise the mind and wonder about reality, knowledge, and values. Learn from the masters and engage their ideas with fresh creative arguments. Readers will be pleasantly surprised how quickly they will be addicted to the study of wisdom. This book is ideal for students of all ages and people who wish to engage their thinking in new ways. Each selection will hopefully provoke readers to consider some other ways to contemplate timeless issues of life that will be conducive to discussion and further reading of classical pieces of philosophy.

Ferocious Minds Damien Broderick, 2005-01-01 Two centuries ago the first Enlightenment failed when its dream of reason smashed into the passions and fury of stubborn humans Without a deep broad understanding of the world the emerging Enlightenment was left floundering its best impulses perverted into the bloody excess of the French Revolution Arguably its idealism and noble goals led directly and shockingly to the 20th century's totalitarian nightmares Now the 21st century is learning anew the Faustian hunger to know everything that can be known But Enlightenment values of reason and tolerance enriched by new knowledge face a complex world no less eager to embrace medieval terrorism and ancient superstitions a world bizarrely denying itself many of the fresh opportunities and insights availed by science Can we find cures for poverty unhappiness ignorance the ruination of the planet aging and perhaps for death itself If so should we Damien Broderick's own ferocious mind invites you to explore today's unexpected treasure house of understanding and provides enticing glimpses of tomorrow's

Animals and Science Maggie Bolton, Cathrine Degnen, 2020-05-15 What exactly does a focus on animals bring to anthropological studies of science This is a question that the various contributors to this edited collection set out to answer This range of studies explores the intersections between animals and science across different ethnographic settings and in different historical periods The contributions to this volume look at what it means to be human the place of human beings vis vis other species on this planet our ideas of what nature and culture are the limits to our ideas of kinship the ethical debates that surround science together with their interpretation by both scientific communities and the lay public and the moral comportment of scientists Through focusing on science our contributors not only demonstrate that people elsewhere have different relationships with and knowledge of beasts and that different possibilities of relating to animals exist within our own Western worldview but further suggest that our Western knowledge about animals and their positions in society arrived at through Western science and the social sciences is itself in need of rethinking to incorporate other ways of knowing This volume contends that accounts in which animals meet science provide important theoretical insights for anthropologists and can set new agendas for theory in anthropology and science studies

The Changing Body Roderick Floud, Robert W. Fogel, Bernard Harris, Sok Chul Hong, 2011-03-31 Humans have become much taller and heavier and experience healthier and longer lives than ever before in human history However it is only recently that historians economists human biologists and demographers have linked the changing size shape and capability of the human body to economic and demographic change This fascinating and groundbreaking book presents an accessible introduction to the field of anthropometric history surveying the causes and consequences of changes in health and mortality diet and the disease environment in Europe and the United States since 1700 It examines how we define and measure health and nutrition as well as key issues such as whether increased longevity contributes to greater productivity or instead imposes burdens on society through the higher costs of healthcare and pensions The result is a major contribution to economic and social history with important implications for today s developing world and the health trends of the future

Loving Nature Kay Milton,2003-09-01 As the full effects of human activity on Earth s life support systems are revealed by science the question of whether we can change fundamentally our relationship with nature becomes increasingly urgent Just as important as an understanding of our environment is an understanding of ourselves of the kinds of beings we are and why we act as we do In Loving Nature Kay Milton considers why some people in Western societies grow up to be nature lovers actively concerned about the welfare and future of plants animals ecosystems and nature in general while others seem indifferent or intent on destroying these things Drawing on findings and ideas from anthropology psychology cognitive science and philosophy the author discusses how we come to understand nature as we do and above all how we develop emotional commitments to it Anthropologists in recent years have tended to suggest that our understanding of the world is shaped solely by the culture in which we live Controversially Kay Milton argues that it is shaped by direct experience in which emotion plays an essential role The author argues that the conventional opposition between emotion and rationality in western culture is a myth The effect of this myth has been to support a market economy which systematically destroys nature and to exclude from public decision making the kinds of emotional attachments that support more environmentally sensitive ways of living A better understanding of ourselves as fundamentally emotional beings could give such ways of living the respect they need

Science vs. Religion Steve Fuller, 2013-04-24 For centuries science and religion have been portrayed as diametrically opposed In this provocative new book Steve Fuller examines the apparent clash between science and religion by focusing on the heated debates about evolution and intelligent design theory In so doing he claims that science vs religion is in fact a false dichotomy For Fuller supposedly intellectual disputes such as those between creationist and evolutionist accounts of life often disguise other institutionally driven conflicts such as the struggle between State and Church to be the source of legitimate authority in society Nowadays many conservative anti science groups support intelligent design theory but Fuller argues that the theory's theological roots are much more radical based on the idea that humans were created to fathom the divine plan perhaps even complete it He goes on to examine the unique political circumstances in the United States that make the emergence of intelligent design theory so controversial yet so persistent Finally he considers the long term prognosis arguing that the future remains very much undecided as society reopens the question of what it means to be human This book will appeal to all readers intrigued by the debates about creationism intelligent design and evolution especially those looking for an intellectually exciting confrontation with the politics and promise of intelligent design theory

Darwin's Wager James B. Miles, 2021-01-28 When the father of gene centred evolutionary biology George C Williams asked the world's largest university press to publish a popular level exposé of Darwin's wager he was told the idea was far too radical to put in front of the reading public Because Darwin wagered in 1871 that humankind is born just another cannibalistic great ape and that it falls on culture not biology to civilise us Darwin's wager explains mathematically the enormous power of culture yet that only by acknowledging this can societies become moral and just Though many including the United States may well never get there Darwin's wager has been buried suppressed for a century and a half Darwin couldn't get the idea out and the giants of modern evolutionary biology couldn't get the idea out So on this 150th anniversary we will fight Darwin's final battle for him

The Self Perceiving Universe Graham Smetham, 2017-01-10 An investigation into the materialist madness of Darwinian views of evolution Further investigation of modern quantum and evolutionary developmental discoveries shows the Darwinian evolutionary worldview is incorrect and a non theistic Intelligent Design operating from the quantum level is correct This leads to the exploration of the view that the universe is a self perceiving organism employing sentient beings as its perceiving agents
