Bearing Witness Readers Writers The No:

Bearing Witness Wendy Griswold, 2018-06-05 Greed frustrated love traffic jams infertility politics polygamy These together with depictions of traditional village life and the impact of colonialism made familiar to Western readers through Chinua Achebe's writing are the stuff of Nigerian fiction Bearing Witness examines this varied content and the determined people who against all odds write publish sell and read novels in Africa's most populous nation Drawing on interviews with Nigeria's writers publishers booksellers and readers surveys and a careful reading of close to 500 Nigerian novels from lightweight romances to literary masterpieces Wendy Griswold explores how global cultural flows and local conflicts meet in the production and reception of fiction She argues that Nigerian readers and writers form a reading class that unabashedly believes in progress rationality and the slow but inevitable rise of a reading culture But they do so within a society that does not support their assumptions and does not trust literature making them modernists in a country that is simultaneously premodern and postmodern Without privacy reliable electricity political freedom or even social toleration of bookworms these Nigerians write and read political satires formula romances war stories complex gender fiction blood and sex crime capers nostalgic portraits of village life and profound explorations of how decent people get by amid urban chaos Bearing Witness is an inventive and moving work of cultural sociology that may be the most comprehensive sociological analysis of a literary system ever written

Reading, Writing, and the Rhetorics of Whiteness Wendy Ryden, Ian Marshall, 2013-03 In this volume Ryden and Marshall bring together the field of composition and rhetoric with critical whiteness studies to show that in our post race era whiteness and racism not only survive but actually thrive in higher education As they examine the effects of racism on contemporary literacy practices and the rhetoric by which white privilege maintains and reproduces itself Ryden and Marshall consider topics ranging from the emotional investment in whiteness to the role of personal narrative in reconstituting racist identities to critiques of the foundational premises of writing programs steeped in repudiation of despised discourses Marshall and Ryden alternate chapters to sustain a multi layered dialogue that traces the rhetorical complexities and contradictions of teaching English and writing in a university setting Their lived experiences as faculty and administrators serve to underscore the complex code of whiteness even as they push to decode it and demonstrate how their own pedagogical practices are raced and racialized in multiple ways Collectively the essays ask instructors and administrators to consider more carefully the pernicious nature of whiteness in their professional activities and how it

The Cambridge Companion to Twentieth-Century Literature and Politics Christos Hadjiyiannis, Rachel Potter, 2022-12-15
For a long time people had been schooled to think of modern literature's relationship to politics as indirect or obscure and often to find the politics of literature deep within its unconsciously ideological structures and forms. But twentieth-century writers were directly involved in political parties and causes and many viewed their writing as part of their activism. This Companion tells a story of the rich and diverse ways in which literature and politics over the twentieth century coincided, overlapped, and also clashed. Covering some of the century's most influential political ideas, moments, and movements, nineteen academic experts uncover new ways of thinking about the relationship between literature and politics. Liberalism, communism, fascism, suffragism, pacifism, federalism, different nationalisms, civil rights, women's rights, sexual rights, Indigenous rights, environmentalism, neoliberalism: twentieth-century authors wrote in direct response to political movements, ideas, events, and campaigns. Institutions of World Literature Stefan Helgesson, Pieter Vermeulen, 2015-06-19
This volume engages critically with the recent and ongoing consolidation of world literature as a paradigm of study. On the basis of an extended, active, and ultimately more literary sense of what it means to institute world literature, it views processes of institutionalization not as limitations but as challenges to understand how literature may simultaneously function as an enabling and exclusionary world of its own. It starts from the observation that literature is never simply a given but is always performatively and materially instituted by translators, publishers, academies, and academics, critics, and readers, as well as authors themselves. This volume therefore substantiates, refines, as well as interrogates current approaches to world literature, such as those developed by David Damrosch, Pascale Casanova, and Emily Apter. Sections focus on the poetics of writers themselves, market dynamics, postcolonial negotiations of discrete archives of literature and translation, engaging a range of related disciplines. The chapters contribute to a fresh understanding of how singular literary works become inserted in transnational systems and conversely how transnational and institutional dimensions of literature are inflected in literary works. Focusing its methodological and theoretical inquiries on a broad archive of texts spanning the triangle Europe-Latin America-Africa, the volume unsettles North America as the self-evident vantage of recent world literature debates. Because of the volume's focus on dialogues between world literature and fields such as postcolonial studies, translation studies, book history, and transnational studies, it will be of interest to scholars and students in a range of areas. Live Literature Ellen Wiles, 2021-05-21
This ground-breaking book explores the phenomenal growth of live literature in the digitalizing 21st century. Wiles asks why literary events appeal and matter to people and how they can transform the ways in which fiction is received and valued. Readers are immersed in the experience of two contrasting events: a major literary festival and an intimate LGBTQ salon. Evocative scenes and observations are interwoven with sharp critical analysis and entertaining conversations with well known author performers reader audiences producers critics and booksellers Wiles s experiential literary ethnography represents an innovative and vital contribution not just to literary research but to research into the value of cultural experience across art forms This book probes intersections between readers and audiences writers and performers texts and events bodies and memories and curation and reception It addresses key literary debates from cultural appropriation to diversity in publishing the effects of social media and the quest for authenticity It will engage a broad audience from academics and producers to writers and audiences Reading Writing Right Jeremy Punt, Marius J Nel, 2018-10-18 In a collection of essays former students colleagues and friends of Prof Elna Mouton honour her life career and scholarly contributions upon her retirement from Stellenbosch University The various essays interact with Prof Mouton s concern for biblical hermeneutics ethics and the interactions and connections between the two ultimately illustrating the width and variety of interest that her work stimulated and which it interacted with Imagining, Writing, (Re)Reading the Black Body Sandra Jackson, Fassil Demissie, Michele Goodwin, 2024-12-02 This book is an outgrowth of an international conference The Black Body Imagining Writing and Re Reading held at DePaul University Chicago in 2004 The various contributing authors critically examine the changing discourses on the black body to address how it has been constituted as a site for construction and maintenance of social and political power Drawing examples from Europe Africa the United States as well as other places in the Black Diaspora the subject matter in this book discusses the raced gendered classed and culturally produced discourses about the black body Through its examination of these and related issues this book contributes to a dialogue across various disciplines about the black body its meanings and negotiations as read interpreted and imagined in different frames of perception and imagination Print editions not for sale in Sub Saharan Africa This book is part of Routledge s co published series 30 Years of Democracy in South Africa in collaboration with UNISA Press which reflects on the past years of a democratic South Africa and assesses the future opportunities and challenges For Our Boys Ambrose P. Dietz, 1879 Landscaping Postcoloniality. The Dissemination of Cameroon Anglophone Literature Joyce Ashuntantang, 2009 This is a foundational text on the production and dissemination of Anglophone Cameroon literature The Republic of Cameroon is a bilingual country with English and French as the official languages Ashuntantang shows that the pattern of production and dissemination of Anglophone Cameroon literature is not only framed by the minority status of English and English speaking Cameroonians within the Republic of Cameroon but is also a reflection of a postcolonial reality in Africa where mostly African literary texts published by western multi national corporations are assured wide international accessibility and readership This book establishes that in spite of these setbacks Anglophone Cameroon writers have produced a corpus of work that has enriched the genres of prose poetry and drama and that these texts deserve a wider readership The Routledge Companion to World Literary Journalism John S.
