Oral Discourse and Education
Bronwyn Davies, P. Corson, 2013-11-01 Oral Discourse and Education examines spoken language as a field of study looking at the various ways in which we can both theorise the place of talk in education and examine the way talk is actually done in educational settings. Given the centrality of literacy based practices in schools a book focusing on talk brings quite different and important perspectives to the study of education. Talk is something that has all too often been devalued and taken for granted. What becomes evident throughout the papers included in this volume is that talk is of central importance in establishing identities and the cultures in which those identities are located. However because we are unused to reflexively examining the way we talk there is a serious disjuncture between what we believe talk should achieve and what can be seen to be achieved in actual talk in educational settings. Anyone interested in teaching should read this book. Becoming more aware of the centrality of talk and what it achieves is important both for enabling us to find ways to bring our ideals more in line with our practices and for being able to recognise and reflect on the ways our talk can be achieving things quite other than what we intend. This book is relevant to teachers at primary secondary and tertiary levels and for researchers interested in spoken language in educational contexts.

Building the Field of Higher Education Engagement Lorilee R. Sandmann, Diann O. Jones, 2023-07-03 Community engagement has evolved as a respected field and now occupies a seat at the academic table. In the past this work had often been relegated to the institutional fringes of higher education its practitioners marginalized and the work often portrayed as service not scholarly. Today higher education community engagement is a dynamic and continually evolving field of scholarship and practice that carries ever increasing academic respect. This book contributes to the ever under construction edifice by presenting a scaffolding of the scholarship that has been part of the building process documenting and analyzing the past speculating about the future and framing a continuing conversation about and for the field. The three parts of this book are designed to promote a continuing field building conversation a look back at foundational documents of the field a set of provocative questions interrogating those foundational works and a look to the future by the next generation of leaders in the field. The central part is the special 20th anniversary issue of the Journal of Higher Education Outreach and Engagement which brings together key documents of the scholarship of engagement with reflections on those documents by key scholars and or the authors of the original works In addition to highlighting the foundations and evolution of the field this work also looks ahead to the next generation of voices and views as input to the conversation with a closing chapter that includes invited essays by nine outstanding community engaged thinkers and writers of the next 20 years who share their ideas about probable futures Technology Innovation Challenge Grants United States. Office of Educational Research and Improvement,1997 Hidden Dimensions of Education Tobias Werler,Christoph Wulf, Given the complexity of education educational science can only focus on a limited number of research areas This book suggests a few new research topics all of which have not received adequate attention In the first part of the book these topics are related to the rhetoric of education in the second to rituals in education
