Basketmaker Caves In The Prayer Rock District Northeastern Arizona:

Foundations of Anasazi Culture Paul F. Reed, 2002-08-29 This major synthesis of work explores new evidence gathered at Basketmaker III sites on the Colorado Plateau in search of further understanding of Anasazi development Since the 1960s large scale cultural resource management projects have revealed the former presence of Anasazi within the entire northern Southwest These discoveries have resulted in a greatly expanded view of the BMIII period A D 550 750 which immediately proceeds the Pueblo phase Particularly noteworthy are finding of Basketmaker remains under those of later periods and in sites with open settings as opposed to the more classic Basketmaker cave and rock shelter sites Foundations of Anasazi Culture explores this new evidence in search of further understanding of Anasazi development Several chapters address the BMII BMIII transition including the initial production and use of pottery greater reliance on agriculture and the construction of increasingly elaborate structures Other chapters move beyond the transitional period to discuss key elements of the Anasazi lifestyle including the use of gray red and white ware ceramics pit structures storage cists surface rooms full dependence on agriculture and varying degrees of social specialization and differentiation A number of contributions address one or more of these issues as they occur at specific sites Other contributors consider the material culture of the period in terms of common elements in architecture ceramics lithic technology and decorative media This work on BMIII sites on the Colorado Plateau will be useful to anyone with an interest in the earliest days of Anasazi civilization

Basketmaker Caves in the Prayer Rock District, Northeastern Arizona Elizabeth Ann Morris, 1959 Prehistoric Sandals from Northeastern Arizona Kelley Hays-Gilpin, 1998-01-01 During the late 1920s and early 1930s archaeologists Earl and Ann Axtell Morris discovered an abundance of sandals from the Basketmaker II and III through Pueblo III periods while excavating rockshelters in northeastern Arizona These densely twined sandals made of yucca yarn were intricately crafted and elaborately decorated and Earl Morris spent the next 25 years overseeing their analysis description and illustration This is the first full published report on this unusual find which remains one of the largest collections of sandals in Southwestern archaeology This monograph offers an integrated archaeological and technical study of the footwear providing for the first time a full scale analysis of the complicated weave structures they represent Following an account by anthropologist Elizabeth Ann Morris of her parents research textile authority Ann Cordy Deegan gives an overview of prehistoric Puebloan sandal types and of twined sandal construction techniques revealing the subtleties distinguishing Basketmaker sandals of different time periods Anthropologist Kelley Ann Hays Gilpin then discusses the decoration of twined sandals and speculates on the purpose of such embellishment

Sandals of the Basketmaker and Pueblo Peoples Lynn Shuler Teague, Dorothy Koster Washburn, 2013-06-01 The decorated sandals worn by prehistoric southwesterners with their complex fiber structures and designs have been dissected described and interpreted for a century Nevertheless these artifacts remain mysterious in many respects Teague and Washburn examine these sandals as sources of information on the history of the people known as the

Basketmakers The unique sandals of early southwestern farmers appear in Basketmaker II and reach their greatest elaboration with the complex fabric structures and colorbanded designs of Basketmaker III The appearance of this footwear coincides with the transition to fully sedentary maize agriculture The authors address the origins of these sandals and what they may reveal about population movements onto and around the Colorado Plateau and about the cosmology of early farmers

Deer of the Southwest Jim Heffelfinger, 2018-05-04 Author Jim Heffelfinger presents a wide array of data in a reader friendly well organized way With a clear mission to make his information not only helpful but entertaining and attractive as well each chapter focuses on a specific aspect of understanding deer The clear detailed table of contents will help readers flip right to the section they want to investigate Not just hunters but anyone who is interested in the deer of West Texas Arizona New Mexico southern California Nevada Utah Colorado northern Mexico or tribal lands will find this book to be an indispensable resource for understanding these familiar and fascinating animals Very few books on the subject of deer in any particular region lend themselves to being complete Jim Heffelfinger's book breaks the mold It is by far the most comprehensive book on mule deer and white tailed deer in the southwestern part of the United States including Plains portions of Texas Colorado and New Mexico I've ever read Everything you ever wanted to know about these two deer species can be found in its pages All of this under one cover and written in a style easy enough for the layperson to understand but scientific enough for the professional biologist Deer of the Southwest is a pleasure to read and should be part of every deer enthusiast's library Great Plains Research An important reference for anyone interested in deer in the Southwest managers and enthusiasts alike Both enlightening and instructive Deer of the Southwest is the ultimate source for understanding the history management and issues facing this resource Jim Heffelfinger has solidified his reputation as the premier authority on deer in this region Barry Hale deer program manager New Mexico Department of Game and Fish

Sourcing Prehistoric Ceramics at Chodistaas Pueblo, Arizona Mar'a Nieves Zede-o,1994 For decades archaeologists have used pottery to reconstruct the lifeways of ancient populations It has become increasingly evident however that to make inferences about prehistoric economic social and political activities through the patterning of ceramic variation it is necessary to determine the location where the vessels were made Through detailed analysis of manufacturing technology and design styles as well as the use of modern analytical techniques such as neutron activation analysis Zede o here demonstrates a broadly applicable methodology for identifying local and nonlocal ceramics

The Marana Community in the Hohokam World Suzanne K. Fish,Paul R. Fish,John Henry Madsen,1992 This account of Classic Period settlement in the Tucson Basin between A D 1100 and 1300 is the first comprehensive description of the organization of territory subsistence and society in a Hohokam community of an outlying region Broad recovery of settlement patterns reveals in unique detail the developmental history of the Marana Community and its hierarchical structure about a central site with a platform mound Remains of diverse agricultural technologies demonstrate the means for supporting populations of previously unrecognized size

a detailed Classic period ceramic chronology for central and southern Veracruz the first detailed study of a Gulf Coast pottery production locale and the first sourcing distribution study of a Gulf Coast pottery complex Of Marshes and Maize Bruce B. Huckell,1995 While it was once believed that agriculture and pottery developed concurrently in prehistoric societies modern research has concluded that agriculture preceded pottery making since a sedentary life with greater food production led to both the need and time to create storage containers Bruce Huckell has been at the forefront of a movement in Arizona archaeology that has greatly modified our understanding of the transition from the Archaic to the agricultural periods in the Southwest Work done by Huckell and others at Matty Canyon has produced the most detailed account available of a Late Archaic village and has been extremely influential in suggesting that the cultivation of maize predated the appearance of pottery Of Marshes and Maize presents archaeological information obtained from small scale investigations at two deeply buried preceramic sites in the Cienega Creek Basin Its report on excavations at the Donaldson Site and at Los Ojitos offers a thorough description of archaeological features and artifacts floral and faunal remains and their geological and chronological contexts From this data the author concludes that a major shift toward a sedentary lifeway dependent on maize agriculture had already occurred by Late Archaic times c 500 to 800 B C demonstrating that previous research on late preceramic sites in this region has provided an inadequate picture of the period This monograph represents the first full presentation in the literature of an important set of data that is well known among researchers but has thus far not been easily accessible It is a classic example of the use of fragmentary evidence in well dated contexts to introduce new ideas and will stand not only as an important record of the evidence but also as the primary reference for this significant new interpretation of the late Archaic and the introduction of agriculture into the Southwest Murray Springs Caleb Vance Haynes, Bruce B. Huckell,2007-04-17 The Murray Springs Site in the upper San Pedro River Valley of southeast Arizona is one of the most significant Clovis sites ever found It contained a multiple bison kill a mammoth kill and possibly a horse kill in a deeply stratified sedimentary context Scattered across the buried occupation surface with the bones of late Pleistocene animals were several thousand stone tools and waste flakes from their manufacture and repair Because of the unique occurrence of an algal black mat that buried the Clovis age surface immediately after abandonment the distributional integrity of the artifacts and debitage clusters is exceptional for Paleoindian sites Excavation of the Clovis hunters camp 50 to 150 meters south of the kills revealed artifactual evidence typical of hunting camp activity including hide working and weapons repair Impact flakes conjoining with Clovis points clearly tied the camp to the bison kill The unique nature of the site and this comprehensive study of the excavated material constitute one of the most important contributions to our knowledge of Paleoindian hunters in the New World Historic Zuni Architecture and Society Thomas John Ferguson,1996-03 A unique approach to the Zuni Pueblo s history applying the architectural method of space syntax linking the structure of Zuni society to the structure of the architecture housing it Drawing heavily on archeological findings the volume nonetheless disputes the traditional archeological theory of population change as a basis for the changes in Zuni society but does not offer any clear theories of its own However Ferguson adjunct curator of archeology Arizona State U does create a vivid historical architectural analysis of the Zuni culture society and social and architectural structure from 1540 to the 1980s Includes numerous diagrams illustrations and photographs Ancestral Hopi Migrations Patrick D. Lyons,2003-04 Assesses the scale and impact of ancestral Hopi migrations including the origin and spread of Roosevelt Red Ware and examines the archaeological record of Homol ovi presenting evidence that the ancient inhabitants of the Winslow Arizona area were immigrants from the Hopi Mesas Beyond Chaco Sarah A. Herr,2001-12 During the eleventh and twelfth centuries A D the Mogollon Rim region of east central Arizona was a frontier situated beyond and between larger regional organizations such as Chaco Hohokam and Mimbres On this southwestern edge of the Puebloan world past settlement poses a contradiction to those who study it Population density was low and land abundant yet the region was overbuilt with great kivas a form of community level architecture Using a frontier model to evaluate household community and regional data Sarah Herr demonstrates that the archaeological patterns of the Mogollon Rim region were created by the flexible and creative behaviors of small scale agriculturalists These people lived in a land rich and labor poor environment in which expediency mobility and fluid social organization were the rule and rigid structures and normative behaviors the exception Herr s research shows that the eleventh and twelfth century inhabitants of the Mogollon Rim region were recent migrants probably from the southern portion of the Chacoan region These early settlers built houses and ceremonial structures and made ceramic vessels that resembled those of their homeland but their social and political organization was not the same as that of their ancestors Mogollon Rim communities were shaped by the cultural backgrounds of migrants by their liminal position on the political landscape and by the unique processes associated with frontiers As migrants moved from homeland to frontier a reversal in the proportion of land to labor dramatically changed the social relations of production Herr argues that when the context of production changes in this way wealth in people becomes more valuable than material wealth and social relationships and cultural symbols such as the great kiva must be reinterpreted accordingly Beyond Chaco expands our knowledge of the prehistory of this region and contributes to our understanding of how ancestral communities were constituted in lower population areas of the agrarian Southwest
