Beyond the Aesthetic and the Anti-Aesthetic James Elkins, Harper Montgomery, 2015-06-26 Each of the five volumes in the Stone Art Theory Institutes series and the seminars on which they are based brings together a range of scholars who are not always directly familiar with one another's work. The outcome of each of these convergences is an extensive and unpredictable conversation on knotty and provocative issues about art. This fourth volume in the series Beyond the Aesthetic and the Anti Aesthetic focuses on questions revolving around the concepts of the aesthetic, the anti aesthetic and the political. The book is about the fact that now almost thirty years after Hal Foster defined the anti aesthetic, there is still no viable alternative to the dichotomy between aesthetics and anti or nonaesthetic art. The impasse is made more difficult by the proliferation of identity politics and it is made less negotiable by the hegemony of anti aesthetics in academic discourse on art. The central question of this book is whether artists and academicians are free of this choice in practice in pedagogy and in theory. The contributors are Stephanie Benzaquen, J. M. Bernstein, Karen Busk Jepsen, Luis Camnitzer, Diarmuid Costello, Joana Cunha Leal, Angela Dimitrakaki, Alexander Dumbadze, T. Brandon Evans, Geng Youzhuang, Boris Groys, Beata Hock, Gordon Hughes, Michael Kelly, Grant Kester, Meredith Kooi, Cary Levine, Sunil Manghani, William Mazzarella, Justin McKeown, Andrew McNamara, Eve Meltzer, Nadja Millner, Larsen Maria Filomena Molder, Carrie Noland, Gary Peters, Aaron Richmond, Lauren Ross, Toni Ross, Eva Schürmann, Gregory Sholette, Noah Simblist, Jon Simons, Robert Storr, Martin Sundberg, Timotheus Vermeulen and Rebecca Zorach.

Appreciation Post Tara Ward, 2024-04-30. What does an art history of Instagram look like? In this text Tara Ward addresses this question to show that Instagram is best understood as a structure of the visual which includes not just the process of looking but what can be seen and by whom. Tracing the platform's own mythology for how it will be integrated into users' lives, Appreciation Post highlights the ways the constraints imposed by the experience of viewing limit the kinds of selves that can be presented on it, showing how the proliferation of technical knowledge especially amongst younger women has produced a revitalization of the myth of the masculine genius and a corresponding reinvigoration of masculine audience for art. Ward prompts contemplation of the meaning of various aspects of Instagram and the deliberate choices on the part of actual Instagrammers exploring what it is like to scroll through images on a phone, the skill involved in taking an Instagram worthy picture and the desires created by following influencers. This approach reveals how Instagram is shifting long established ways of interacting with images and makes an argument for art history's value as a way of understanding the contemporary world and the visual nature of identity today.

Unnamable Susette Min, 2018-06-05. Redraws the contours of Asian American art attempting to free it from a categorization that stifles more than it reveals. Charting its historical conditions and the expansive contexts of its emergence, Susette Min challenges the notion of Asian American art as a site of reconciliation for marginalized artists to enter into the canon or mainstream art scene. Pressing critically on the politics of visibility and recognition and how this categorization reduces artworks by Asian American artists within narrow parameters of interpretation, Unnamable reconceives Asian American art not as a subset of objects but as a discursive medium that sets up the conditions for a politics to occur. By approaching Asian American art in this way, Min refigures the way we see Asian American art as an oppositional practice less in terms of its aspirations to be seen its greater visibility and more in terms of how it models a different way of seeing and encountering the world. Uniquely presented, the chapters are organized thematically as mini exhibitions and offer readings of select works by contemporary artists including Tehching Hsieh, Byron Kim, Simon Leung, Mary Lum, and Nikki S. Lee. Inspired above all by their art practice, Min argues for an alternative approach to exhibition making and methods of reading that conceives of these works not as exemplary instances of Asian American art but as engaged in an aesthetic practice that remains open ended, challenging the assumptions that racialize artists within an Asian American context. Ultimately, Unnamable insists that in order to reassess Asian American art and beyond its place in art history, we may need to let go not only of established viewing and curatorial practices but potentially even the category of Asian American art itself as we know it.

Radical Documentary and Global Crises Ryan Watson, 2021-10-05. When independent filmmakers, activists, and amateurs document the struggle for rights, representation, and revolution, they instrumentalize images by advocating for a particular outcome. Ryan Watson calls this militant evidence. In Radical Documentary and Global Crises, Watson centers the discussion on extreme conflict such as the Iraq War the occupation of Palestine the war in Syria mass incarceration in the United States and child soldier conscription in the Congo Under these conditions artists and activists aspire to document archive witness and testify The result is a set of practices that turn documentary media toward a commitment to feature and privilege the media made by the people living through the terror This footage is then combined with new digitally archived images stories and testimonials to impact specific social and political situations Radical Documentary and Global Crises re orients definitions of what a documentary is how it functions how it circulates and how its effect is measured arguing that militant evidence has the power to expose to amass and to adjudicate

Cities and Cultures

Malcolm Miles, 2007-04-26 Cities and Cultures is a critical account of the relations between contemporary cities and the cultures they produce and which in turn shape them. The book questions received ideas of what constitutes a city's culture through case studies in which different kinds of culture, the arts, cultural institutions and heritage, distinctive ways of life are seen to be differently used in or affected by the development of particular cities. The book does not mask the complexity of this but explains it in ways accessible for undergraduates. The book begins with introductory chapters on the concepts of a city and a culture, the latter in the anthropological sense as well as denoting the arts, citing cases from modern literature. The book then moves from a critical account of cultural production in a metropolitan setting to the idea that a city too is produced through the characteristic ways of life of its inhabitants. The cultural industries are scrutinised for their relation to such cultures as well as to city marketing and attention is given to the European Cities of Culture initiative and to the hybridity of contemporary urban cultures in a period of globalisation and migration. In its penultimate chapter the book looks at incidental cultural forms and cultural means to identify formation and in its final chapter examines the permeability of urban cultures and cultural forms. Sources are introduced, positions clarified and contrasted and notes given for selective further reading. Playing on the two meanings of culture, Miles takes a unique approach by relating arguments around these meanings to specific cases of urban development today. The book includes both critical comment on a range of literatures, being a truly interdisciplinary study and the outcome of the author's field research into urban cultures. The One and the Many Grant H. Kester, 2011-09-12 Examines questions of agency, artismanship and identity in relation to collaborative art practice. Building Houses out of Chicken Legs Psyche A. Williams-Forsen, 2006-12-08 Chicken, both the bird and the food, has played multiple roles in the lives of African American women from the slavery era to the present. It has provided food and a source of income for their families, shaped a distinctive culture and helped women define and exert themselves in racist and hostile environments. Psyche A. Williams-Forsen examines the complexity of black women's legacies using food as a form of cultural work. While acknowledging the negative interpretations of black culture associated with chicken imagery, Williams-Forsen focuses her analysis on the ways black women have forged their own self-definitions and relationships to the gospel bird. Exploring material ranging from personal interviews to the comedy of Chris Rock, from commercial advertisements to the art of Kara Walker and from cookbooks to literature, Williams-Forsen considers how black women arrive at degrees of self-definition and self-reliance using certain foods. She demonstrates how they defy conventional representations of blackness and exercise influence through food preparation and distribution. Understanding these complex relationships clarifies how present associations of blacks and chicken are rooted in a past that is fraught with both racism and agency. The traditions and practices of feminism, Williams-Forsen argues, are inherent in the foods women prepare and serve. Encyclopedia of Twentieth-Century Photography, 3-Volume Set Lynne Warren, 2005-11-15 The Encyclopedia of Twentieth Century Photography explores the vast international scope of twentieth-century photography and explains that history with a wide ranging interdisciplinary manner This unique approach covers the aesthetic history of photography as an evolving art and documentary form while also recognizing it as a developing technology and cultural force This Encyclopedia presents the important developments movements photographers photographic institutions and theoretical aspects of the field along with information about equipment techniques and practical applications of photography To bring this history alive for the reader the set is illustrated in black and white throughout and each volume contains a color plate section A useful glossary of terms is also included
