force and as a complex historical entity A Distant Technology J. P. Telotte, 1999 Science fiction films celebrate and critique the impact of a burgeoning technology on the world's cultural, political, and social milieu. The Machine Age, roughly delineated by the two decades between World Wars, was a watershed period during which modern society entered into an ambiguous embrace with technology that continues today. J. P. Telotte carefully blends film, technology, cultural, and genre studies to illuminate this nearly forgotten era in our cinematic history and to show through analysis of classics like The Invisible Man, Metropolis, and Things to Come how technology played a major role as motif, actor, and producer. What he also discovers as he ranges among the American, British, Russian, French, and German science fiction cinema, as well as mainstream films, figures, and cultural products such as the New York World's Fair, is a fundamental ambivalence embedded in the films themselves about the very machine age ethos they promoted. Even as advances in the technical apparatus of filmmaking elevated it from mere entertainment to a medium of general communication and genuine artistic expression, Machine Age science fiction films remained curiously distant from and often skeptical of the very machines on which their narratives focus. The resulting tensions, Telotte writes, thus seem to intersect with those implicit in a Western world that was struggling with its own transition into the modern, rendering the films' task inevitably paradoxical and difficult. Boris Karloff Beverly Bare Buehrer, 1993-08-23 This reference work on Boris Karloff presents a comprehensive record of the life and career of this famous performer. The volume begins with a biography which succinctly presents the facts of Karloff's life. A chronology of his significant achievements follows. The remaining chapters overview Karloff's broad career. Chapters document and comment upon his film, stage, radio, and television performances. A discography is included as well. The book concludes with an annotated bibliography of books and articles about Karloff, along with a comprehensive index. Framing Latin American Cinema Ann Marie Stock, 1997 Proposes new critical directions in Latin American film. Framing Latin American Cinema embraces multiple modes of scholarship, juxtaposing feature films and documentaries and locating cinema within larger cultural debates. Considering works from Argentina, Brazil, Cuba, Colombia, Guatemala, Mexico, and Venezuela, the contributors address a range of topics, including studies of directors like Roman Chalbaud and Fernando Pérez, examinations of viewer patterns and critical tendencies, and analyses of Mexican melodrama, revolutionary films, and such internationally acclaimed works as Dona Herlinda and A Place in the World. The Horror Reader Ken Gelder, 2000 Horror has been one of the most spectacular and controversial genres in both cinema and fiction, its wild excesses relished by some, vilified by many others. Often defiantly marginal, it nevertheless inhabits the very fabric of everyday life, providing us with ways of imagining and classifying our world: what is evil and what is good, what is monstrous and what is normal, what can be seen and what should remain hidden. The Horror Reader brings together 29 key articles to examine the enduring resonance of horror across culture. Spanning the history of horror in literature and film and discussing texts from Britain, the United States, Europe, the Caribbean, and Hong Kong, it explores a diversity of horror forms from classic gothic literature like Frankenstein and Dr. Jekyll

and Mr Hyde to contemporary serial killers horror film fanzines and low budget movies such as The Leech Woman and The Texas Chainsaw Massacre Themes addressed include the fantastic horror and psychoanalysis monstrosities different Frankensteins vampires queer horror American gothic splatter and slasher films race and ethnicity lowbrow and low budget horror new regional horror The Reader opens with an introduction to the field of horror by Ken Gelder and each thematic section includes an introductory preface There is also a comprehensive bibliography of horror literature Film - An International Bibliography Malte Hagener, Michael Töteberg, 2016-12-16 Kommentierte Bibliografie Sie gibt Wissenschaftlern Studierenden und Journalisten zuverlässig Auskunft über rund 6000 internationale Veröffentlichungen zum Thema Film und Medien Die vorgestellten Rubriken reichen von Nachschlagewerk über Filmgeschichte bis hin zu Fernsehen Video Multimedia

Subversive Horror Cinema Jon Towlson, 2014-04-03 Horror cinema flourishes in times of ideological crisis and national trauma the Great Depression the Cold War the Vietnam era post 9 11 and this critical text argues that a succession of filmmakers working in horror from James Whale to Jen and Sylvia Soska have used the genre and the shock value it affords to challenge the status quo during these times Spanning the decades from the 1930s onward it examines the work of producers and directors as varied as George A Romero Pete Walker Michael Reeves Herman Cohen Wes Craven and Brian Yuzna and the ways in which films like Frankenstein 1931 Cat People 1942 The Woman 2011 and American Mary 2012 can be considered subversive I Walked With a Zombie Clive Dawson, 2023-07-15 I Walked with a Zombie 1943 Val Lewton's second feature for RKO Radio Pictures was described by critic Robin Wood as perhaps the most delicate poetic fantasy in the American Cinema. Following immediately in the wake of the groundbreaking Cat People 1942, Zombie pioneered an even more radical narrative approach yet proved to be the critical and commercial equal of its predecessor, cementing the reputation of both Lewton and his director Jacques Tourneur. Despite the lurid studio-imposed title, I Walked with a Zombie is a subtle and ambiguous visual poem that advanced a daring condemnation of slavery and colonialism at a time when such themes were being actively suppressed by government censors. Clive Dawson charts the complex development and production of the project, essential to understanding the concerns of the filmmakers in the context of wartime Hollywood. Then, he analyses the film in detail, referencing a broad range of academic studies of the audio-visual text and distilling new insight into its layers of meaning. Finally, he explores the film's reception and the influence it exerted on the horror genre and beyond. Extensive primary research has uncovered a wealth of previously unpublished new material that solves many unanswered questions and dispels various myths about this utterly unique film.
