A Resource Allocation Model for Child Survival Howard Barnum,1980 Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.),1983 First multi year cumulation covers six years 1965 70 Financing Health Services in Developing Countries John S. Akin,Nancy Birdsall,David M. De Ferranti,1987-01-01 This report discusses several different approaches that support reforming health care services in developing countries For some time now health care services have been supported by government funds As demands for improving health care services continue to increase additional demands will be placed on governments to respond This however will not be easy Slow economic growth and record budget deficits in the 1980 s have forced reductions in public spending Alternative approaches to finance health care services are needed Such possible changes could involve decentralization of federal government involvement the promotion of nongovernment involvement the imposition of user fees and establishing health insurance Finally the role of the Bank in pursuing new financing strategies is discussed Cost-effective Integration of Immunization and Basic Health Services in Developing Countries, the Problem of Joint Costs A. Economic Analysis of Investment Operations Pedro Belli,2001-01-01 This books presents general principles and methodologies of quantitative risk analysis provides theory and practice of how to evaluate health transport and education projects and describes how to assess the environmental impact of projects. It looks at how the tools of cost benefit analysis can be applied from the point of view of the private sector, public sector, bankers and the country as a whole. It encourages analysts to answer a number of key questions that are likely to increase success rather than simply describing techniques. This book is aimed at all concerned with resource allocation and is presented in an accessible fashion. It is required reading at World Bank Institute courses.

Maternal and Child Health John Ehiri, 2009-10-03

Our current era of globalization, war and socioeconomic unrest has revealed public health as a worldwide concern and a major frontier for social justice, with maternal and child health at its epicenter. Yet there has been a relative scarcity of training resources specifically dedicated to this crucial area. Maternal and Child Health: Global Challenges, Programs and Policies addresses this gap in current knowledge by analyzing the range of socioeconomic and environmental factors, health care disparities, politics, policies and cultural practices that impact the health and safety of mothers as well as the well being and optimum development of their children. Individual sections focus on unequal distribution of the world's resources, politics and power, specific disease concerns, programs, policies and emerging concerns, with a focus on what is currently being done and what needs to be done to improve the health status of women, children and adolescents. The book's contributors are some of the world's most respected experts, carefully selected to represent different global geographic regions and diverse professional disciplines related to maternal and child health from both academic and field practice perspectives. Among the topics in this authoritative volume: The impact of war, globalization, gender inequity and harmful traditional practices e.g. female genital mutilation. Specific health concerns including tuberculosis, malaria, HIV and malnutrition. Child and adolescent health issues from abuse and neglect to children in difficult circumstances. Pregnancy related issues, safety, abortion and post abortion care, teen pregnancy and more. Strategies for planning, developing and maintaining maternal and child health systems in developing countries. The status of global initiatives such as Integrated Management of Childhood Illnesses and the Millennium Development Goals. The status of evidence based maternal and child health in the developing world. With such a wealth of information on both practical and conceptual levels, Maternal and Child Health: Global Challenges, Programs and Policies is as relevant to students and researchers in the field as it is to policy makers and those working for global health and development organizations. It also makes an excellent stand alone text for courses in global health in general and global maternal and child health in particular.

Rationing and Resource Allocation in Healthcare Ezekiel J. Emanuel, 2018

Budgets of governments and private insurances are limited. Not all drugs and services that appear beneficial to patients or physicians can be covered. Is there a core set of benefits that everyone should be entitled to? If so, how should this set be determined? Are fair decisions just impossible if we know from the outset that not all needs can be met? While early work in bioethics has focused on clinical issues and a narrow set of principles, in recent years there has been a marked shift towards addressing broader population level issues requiring consideration of more demanding theories in philosophy, political science and economics At the heart of bioethics new orientation is the goal of clarity on a complex set of questions in rationing and resource allocation Rationing and Resource Allocation in Healthcare Essential Readings provides key excerpts from seminal and pertinent texts and case studies about these topics contextualized by original introductions The volume is divided into three broad sections Conceptual Distinctions and Ethical Theory Rationing and Resource Allocation Containing the most important and classic articles surrounding the theoretical and practical issues related to rationing and how to allocate scarce medical resources this collection aims to assist and inform those who wish to be a part of bioethics 21st century shift including practitioners and policy makers and students and scholars in the health sciences philosophy law and medical ethics

Kotch's Maternal and Child Health Russell S. Kirby, 2021-03-15 The 4th edition of Maternal and Child Health will continue to offer a comprehensive trusted introduction to the field of Maternal and Child Health however this new edition with a new author team and new MCH expert contributors will present the traditional MCH topics in a modern context that addresses race ethnicity an expanded family focus including fathers and a broadened approach that will appeal not only to public health professionals but also to health professionals outside public health practice Child Survival Nancy Scheper-Hughes, 2012-12-06 of older children adults and the family unit as a whole These moral evaluations are in turn influenced by such external contingencies as population demography social and economic factors subsistence strategies household composition and by cultural ideas concerning the nature of infancy and childhood definitions of personhood and beliefs about the soul and its immortality MOTHER LOVE AND CHILD DEATH Of all the many factors that endanger the lives of young children by far the most difficult to examine with any degree of dispassionate objectivity is the quality of parenting Historians and social scientists no less than the public at large are influenced by old cultural myths about childhood innocence and mother love as well as their opposites The terrible power and significance attributed to maternal behavior in particular is a commonsense perception based on the observation that the human infant specialized as it is for prematurity and prolonged dependency simply cannot survive for very long without considerable maternal love and care The infant's life depends to a very great extent on the good will of others but most especially of course that of the mother Consequently it has been the fate of mothers throughout history to appear in strange and distorted forms They may appear as larger than life or as invisible as all powerful and destructive or as helpless and angelic Myths of the maternal instinct compete historically with myths of a universal infanticidal impulse
