The Poetics of Melancholy in Early Modern England Douglas Trevor, 2004-09-30 The Poetics of Melancholy in Early Modern England explores how attitudes toward and explanations of human emotions change in England during the late sixteenth and early seventeenth century Typically categorized as literary writers Edmund Spenser John Donne Robert Burton and John Milton were all active in the period's reappraisal of the single emotion that due to their efforts would become the passion most associated with the writing life melancholy By emphasising the shared concerns of the non literary and literary texts produced by these figures Douglas Trevor asserts that quintessentially scholarly practices such as glossing texts and appending sidenotes shape the methods by which these same writers come to analyse their own moods He also examines early modern medical texts dramaturgical representations of learned depressives such as Shakespeare's Hamlet and the opposition to materialistic accounts of the passions voiced by Neoplatonists such as Edmund Spenser The Oxford History of Poetry in English ,2024-10-25 The Oxford History of Poetry in English OHOPE is designed to offer a fresh multi voiced and comprehensive analysis of poetry from Anglo Saxon culture through contemporary British Irish American and Global culture including English Scottish and Welsh poetry Anglo American colonial and post colonial poetry and poetry in Canada Australia New Zealand the Caribbean India Africa Asia and other international locales OHOPE both synthesizes existing scholarship and presents cutting edge research employing a global team of expert contributors for each of the fourteen volumes By taking as its purview the full seventeenth century 1603 1700 this volume re draws the existing literary historical map and expands upon recent rethinking of the canon Placing the revolutionary years at the centre of a century of poetic transformation and putting the Restoration back into the seventeenth century the volume registers the transformative effects on poetic forms of a century of social political and religious upheaval It considers the achievements of a number of women poets not yet fully integrated into traditional literary histories It assimilates the vibrant literature of the English Revolution to what came before and after registering its long term impact It traces the development of print culture and of the literary marketplace alongside the continued circulation of poetry in manuscript It places John Milton Andrew Marvell Margaret Cavendish and Katherine Philips and other mid century poets into the full century of specifically literary development It traces continuity and change imitation and innovation in the full century trajectory of such poetic genres as sonnet elegy satire georgic epigram ode devotional lyric and epic The volume's attention to poetic form builds on the current upswing in historicist formalism allowing a close focus on poetry as an intensely aesthetic and social literary mode Designed for maximum classroom utility the organization is both thematic and in the authors section chronological After a comprehensive Introduction organizational sections focus on Transitions Materiality Production and Circulation Poetics and Form Genres and Poets
